Strike Threat Action Delayed By City Council

Government-Supervised Vote Requested by Outside Workers

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Consideration of possible strike action by civic employees was postponed indefinitely yesterday by city council, despite growing unrest among City Hall "inside" and "outside" staffs.

Leaders of the Civic Employees' Protective Association disclosed Wednesday night that outside workers had already applied for a government-supervised strike vote.

STATEMENT ISSUED

Subsequently, Elwood Gropp, president of the association, issued this statement of his organization's position: "This association has considered many motions and recommendations for its future guidance, and before any future action is taken its immediate decision has been to advise the city council that it is still perfectly prepared to have matters in dispute brought before an arbitration board whose findings would be accepted by and binding on both parties."

Workers in both unions were recently awarded across-the-board wage boosts of 3 per cent by unanimous recommendations of conciliation boards.

The awards were refused by city council.

During yesterday's council meeting, Ald. William Pinfold drew attention to reports that the outside staff had applied for a strike vote.

Mayor Harrison suggested that the matter be discussed after the regular meeting of council at a committee meeting of the whole council.

STANDING FIRM

He said that as far as he is concerned there is nothing to discuss, indicating that he does not plan to budge from his position of complete opposition to granting the wage boosts.

The mayor suggested that the committee of the whole meeting be left in abeyance until "we have a full council." He said Ald. Frank Mulliner will return from Eastern Canada next Monday.

Ald. Arthur Dowell objected, saying he is leaving before the end of the week for Eastern Canada and could not be present at any meetings next week.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow is also in Eastern Canada and is not expected back in the city until next Thursday.

Alderman Pinfold asked that the committee meeting be held immediately after yesterday's council meeting, but Ald. Brent Murdoch said he would have to leave the City Hall at 3.30 p.m.

The mayor said this would leave only a bare majority of council to discuss the problem and added that it should be discussed by the entire body.

MORAL OBLIGATION

He declared he didn't think wage increases were justified this year. However, since wage hikes were recommended by unanimous reports of conciliation boards, the city is under a moral obligation to grant the awards, he said.

Alderman Dowell referred to growing discontent among civic employees over council's attitude and said the morale of the staffs is low.

Council and its civic employees both are divided on the issue of wage increases, he said.

The only solution, he added, is to seek arbitration which would be binding on both parties.

Alderman Pinfold finally agreed that the date for the committee meeting should be left to the decision of the mayor.

City Council could open negotiations any time with the unions in order to avoid strike action. This step would be possible however, only through agreement between council and the unions. Council has no legal grounds at this point on which to force the unions to reopen negotiations or agree to arbitration.

COST TO CITY

The outside staff originally sought wage increases roughly equivalent to 19 cents an hour which would have cost the city $99,000. The 3 per cent conciliation board award, however, would cost the city only $27,600.

The inside staff sought a wage increase of 7.8 per cent, which would have cost the city an additional $49,534. The 3 per cent wage award of the conciliation board reduced this amount to $20,740.

Outside employees have decided to seek a strike vote and revert to their original wage demands.

Top Man Top

Prospect of a free trip to Houston, Texas, and a $1,000 prize looms for the boy on top of the totem. 15-year-old Roland Hawes, 668 Falkland, who last night won the local elimination contest in the Optimist oratorical competition. Overhaul Job Set For Ship

The converted frigate St. Stephen will be refitted for duty as a third weathership on Station Papa at a cost of $400,000, it was learned last night.

At the same time it was disclosed a new lighthouse supply and buoy vessel will be built to replace the tender CGS Berens, working from this port.

Col. Keith Dixon, marine agent here, said the new ship will be considerably larger than the Berens.

The lighthouse supply ship building job will be part of a $1,250,000 program for government services out of Victoria; and that expenditure is part of a $10,000,000 program covering federal government shipping.

Another $10,000,000 will be spent on airports by Ottawa, according to a dispatch from the capital.

"We don't know the exact size of the new lighthouse tender yet because, as far as I know, it hasn't been designed," Col. Dixon said. It will require a much larger crew than the Berens.

Conversion of the St. Stephen will include larger crew quarters and a bigger fuel capacity. At present Canada uses only two weatherships on the Pacific, but the United States uses three ships to serve one weather station.

Only a maintenance staff is kept aboard the St. Stephen at present and when it is put in service a full crew will be required.

In federal ship construction it is planned to spend $10,000,000 in the fiscal year ending next March 31 in a continuing program on various jobs.

The Berens, which will be replaced by the new ship, has been a familiar figure in Victoria waters for 33 years. She was built here in 1921, is 66 feet in length, 73 tons gross, and carries a crew of ten officers and men.

Old Tender To Go

Civil Defense Help Planned in Floods

While all B.C. prepares to meet the threat of floods, the provincial civil defense board has given authority to Leonard Hatcher, Greater Victoria area civil defense director, to take whatever steps he considers necessary to anticipate government appeals for aid.

Volunteers are not sought at this stage, but the civil defense chiefs will make plans for swift action in the event of help being needed.

So far, said Mr. Hatcher, "there is no reason to believe we will be called. But we will be ready."

A hot sun beat down on B.C.'s far-spreading watersheds yesterday.

Heat, in the wake of heavy rains, may hasten the flood crisis, officials believe.

FEAR HOT SPELL

Weather officials in Vancouver said temperatures in the 70s are in prospect for Interior areas, and flood control officials wondered if the threatened hot spell, which could mean disaster, is at hand.

Premier Bennett, whose own home at Kelowna was surrounded by flood water Wednesday, announced in Victoria that the government would give full support to local authorities and civil defense personnel engaged in flood work.

But he emphasized that the flood situation had not yet reached the danger point. He said a good run-off now would lessen the danger later in the month when the flood threat is expected to be at its peak.

Meanwhile authorities at the Interior centres of Grand Forks and Kelowna reported flash floods which struck the area Wednesday had started to recede.

At Renata, 25 miles northwest of Trail, residents began mopping up following a flood that caused extensive damage to fruit orchards.

At Trail, civic officials declined to have the city participate in a civil defense scheme to test preparations being made in the province against any possible atomic attack.

Officials say a prolonged spell of warm weather, similar to that experienced in 1948 when floods caused $30,000,000 damage and drove 16,000 persons from their homes, could have serious consequences. However, a cool snap in about a week's time to slow and spread out the runoff period would avert the danger.

SLOWER RISE

The Columbia River rose about nine inches during the last 24 hours, to 15.04 feet at Revelstoke, compared with a one-foot jump the day before. At Prince George, the Fraser rose 10 inches to 21.12 feet. Both are still well below the danger level.

Sailor Dies, Three Hurt In Collision

Rear-End Car Crash Kills Father of Five

Victoria's second traffic fatality of the year was recorded yesterday when the father of five children died from head injuries received in a two-car collision at Leighton and Richmond at 6.20 p.m.

Dead is Peter Bulmer, an RCN man, who lived at 989 Dunsmuir, Esquimalt.

Three other persons were injured including a 21-months-old baby boy.

Injured were:

CPO Lloyd Thomas, 1732 Amphion, in HMCS Naden Hospital;

PO Christopher Moodie, 3814 Rowland, released from Royal Jubilee after treatment for head bruises; and

Robbie Redgrave, 21-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Redgrave, 1255 Judge Place. The little boy was treated for cuts to the mouth and ear and subsequently released from hospital.

Eye-witnesses said the car driven by Bulmer, which was traveling east on Leighton, had nearly crossed Richmond Road when the other vehicle, driven by Robert G. Redgrave, smashed into its rear.

Bulmer's car went out of control and overturned on the southeast corner of the intersection.

Both cars were heavily damaged, police reported.

The rear of Bulmer's vehicle was crushed in and blood was smeared over the roof of the right side. A city constable had to climb inside the overturned car to release the injured men.

The front of the other car was stove in, the engine being pushed back from its mountings.

Police took the three Navy men to Jubilee in an ambulance while a passer-by drove the injured child to the same hospital.

SKULL FRACTURE

Bulmer, who sustained a fractured skull and shock, died two hours after the accident.

A large dog, riding in the Redgrave car, wandered about after the crash and climbed back into the old model car to guard his master's property when the injured had been taken away.

Naval authorities said all three men were members of the crew of HMCS Sioux.

CPO Thomas is being held in hospital overnight for observation. It is expected he will be released this morning.

Police said no charges would be laid. An inquest will be held at a date to be announced later.

It was stated that Bulmer was a married man with five children. His wife, Edith, and brother, James, were hurried to the hospital soon after the accident.

Both cars are being held in the police garage.

The first traffic death of this year here was well-known blind musician Charles Rowles, who was killed in a two-car crash at Pembroke and Cook, March 3.

Hit by Car; Boy Left At Own Gate

NANAIMO — RCMP are searching for a motorist whose car struck down the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neil here, picked the boy up, deposited him at his gate, then drove away.

Brian Neil, whose father is an RCAF officer of the Second World War and air cadet commanding officer here, was taken to hospital after he collapsed at the gate. He suffered severe shoulder and side injuries.

While many children witnessed the accident, none obtained the license number.

Home-Raised Monkey Dies

ORANGE PARK, Fla., (AP)—Viki, the young chimpanzee Dr. Keith Hayes undertook to raise in his house as he would a human child, is dead.

Hayes said Viki died Tuesday after an illness of about three weeks.

Indians' Interdiction Rouses Chief's Fury

VANCOUVER - (CP) — Chief Andy Paull, spokesman for the North American Brotherhood of Indians, said Thursday he would demand the dismissal of L. G. Saul, stipendiary magistrate at northern Burns Lake, B.C., for keeping Indians out of the town's lone beer parlor "for their own good."

The magistrate told a convention here the natives were barred "because what's the difference between interdicting them one at a time or all at once."

Chief Paull termed the move "overbearing racial prejudice."

"The man's mentality is not that of other Canadians. I'm going to write the attorney-general asking that his authority be taken away."

"We have a different brand of Indians up there," Magistrate Saul said. "They're a lower type than you have around Vancouver. When they were given drinking privileges, it was like taking a person out of darkness and putting him into the light."

Immediately after the Indians were admitted to the beer parlor, he said, RCMP had 75 per cent more work on their hands. "The Indians' families suffered and the whites were scared to death."

Inventor Gar Wood Saved

Twin-Hulled Vessel Wrecked Off Coast

MIAMI — Sportsman Gar Wood's radical, twin-hulled motorship that he called the "ocean liner of the future" foundered in the stormy Atlantic yesterday and a helicopter plucked the aging speedboat king to safety from a life raft.

Two women were rescued by the Coast Guard aircraft along with the 73-year-old inventor. Six other persons—all men—who had been aboard the ill-fated epexrimental "Venturi" were taken from the bobbing life raft by a passing private vessel.

Wood and the two women were landed temporarily at Great Isaacs Lighthouse near the wreck scene some 65 miles off the lower Florida east coast in the Gulf Stream.

COMPLETE WRECK

The elderly sportsman, who between 1920 and 1933 monopolized world speedboat records in his famed Miss Americas, was brought to Miami later last night by helicopter.

The Venturi, a 188-foot vessel like nothing else afloat with deck and cabins perched 22 feet above the twin, pontoon-like hulls, was a "complete wreck," reported Coast Guard pilot Lt. J. E. Johansen.

"It was lying on its side, flush with the water and a lot of debris was floating around," the Coast Guard flier said.

From the helicopter, Wood made a brief personal report that all aboard managed to get into the life raft without injury when the Venturi started to capsize.

It was not determined at once whether a violent thunder squall in the area caused the wreck or whether the Venturi struck one of the numerous hidden reefs in the area.

Until yesterday, the Venturi had negotiated all kinds of weather since its launching in 1944.

Statement Urged On Sovereignty

OTTAWA — (CP) — A Progressive Conservative member suggested that Northern Affairs Minister Lesage write the editors of Time Magazine to assert Canada's sovereignty over Ellesmere Island in the Arctic.

Howard Green (Vancouver Quadra) said that a recent issue of Time Magazine, a United States publication, describes Ellesmere Island as north of Canada.

"My understanding is that Ellesmere is part of Canada," Mr. Green said in the Commons. It was important that Canada should never lose an opportunity to assert her sovereignty over her Arctic islands.

It would be a good idea for Mr. Lesage to remind the editors of Time that Ellesmere is part of Canada.

DIFFICULTY AHEAD

"This sort of thing, if allowed to go uncommented, could possibly lead to difficulty in the years ahead . . . We do not want another nation stepping in there and asserting sovereignty."

Mr. Lesage said he agrees Canada should do everything to show her sovereignty in the Arctic. However, there was no question of ownership of Ellesmere, the northern most of Canada's islands about 500 miles from the north pole.

Canada occupied the island. Her flag flew over two RCMP posts there. And recently Ellesmere and a group of other islands were named the Queen Elizabeth Islands.

Time for War Rhee Declares

SEOUL (UP) — President Syngman Rhee said Thursday the time has come to go back to war.

"To wait longer—to talk and talk and talk—is to give the Communists time to overtake us militarily and eventually to try to destroy us," Rhee said.

Brooklyn's 'Cave Man' Returns Above Ground

U.S. Yard To Build RCN Keels

Canada has had to turn to the United States to supply keels for use on Canadian minesweepers.

Bellingham Shipyards Co. has been awarded a $150,000 contract to build six pressure-treated minesweeper keels for delivery to six separate yards in Canada. Davies Shipbuilding Ltd., of Quebec, lead shipyard in minesweeper construction announced award of the subcontract.

According to local shipyard officials it is the first time Canada has had to turn to the United States for aid of this kind.

Two of the keels will be used on minesweepers to be constructed at Yarrows and Victoria Machinery Depot.

The keels will be of laminated plywood and will be similar to those used in the locally-built minesweepers HMCS Comox and HMCS James Bay and the Fortune which is now under construction at VMD.

Keels for those ships were made in Canada, but companies in Toronto and Vancouver which made them have gone out of business because of lack of work.

City Offered Skyscraper

TORONTO (CP) — A United States syndicate has offered to invest $75,000,000 in construction of a new 50-story skyscraper to house municipal and court offices in place of city hall, it was reported Thursday.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE morning calm was split by an odd sound. It was something like a hiss, and something like a whistle. Without stopping to put on shoes, I rushed to the veranda. The lake was a brown mirror.

The sound came from beneath the float. The dog and both cats pushed through the thick new grass to the water's edge, stalking the unknown quarry.

I cleared the rickety footwalk with the hop-step motion that is required to avoid wet feet, and landed on the deck of the raft. Lying flat on the planks, I looked between the supporting logs. Nothing was visible at first.

And then, through the greenish light, I saw the serpentine shape of a mink, arched between footholds on the two logs and curled slightly away from me in an attitude of defiance.

Both cats jumped on the float. I doubt if they had ever seen or smelled a mink before. But I shooed them away. I wouldn't like to bet on their chances against that ice-hearted killer from the lake, with razor teeth that will drive to the bone, or snap an artery in a second.

The mink is small and lean, but savage clear through. I once saw a flock of chickens with their throats cut. Someone told me that a mink had done the job, and that was very likely so.

And yet, I understand, mink have an appealing quality about them at times. A family of mink lives on somebody's waterfront a short way along from my house. According to reports, they play very prettily in and out of the water.

I drove the cats off the float and when I looked under the deck again the mink was nowhere in sight. Either he had twisted into a crevice with his narrow, supple body, like a furry snake's, and make himself invisible, or else he had glided into an overhanging bush.

The grass has already lost its indefinable virgin bloom and turned a darker green, but the maple leaves still have a light, tender look about them. Our front yard, cluttered with planks, weeds and fast-growing grass, has all the neatness and charm of an ape's coiffure.

But it smells of earth and sun and greenery. Half the dandelions have turned to fluff. The broom is starting to blossom. The small boy, now aged 16 months, extends his hand towards all kinds of flowers and says "Flau. Flau." His vocabulary expands rapidly. He has known for a long time what a tree is. It's a "tee."

One of his earlier words was "duck," which he renders "duh." The word applies to all kinds of swimming birds, including the coots and the loons. But if no swimming birds are visible, he says "No duh." Recently he pointed to a swallow and said "duh."

"No," said his mother. "Bird. Birds fly." She thought it best to make a distinction between ducks and birds. And she flapped her arms to illustrate. The small boy flapped his arms too. And now whenever anyone says "Birds fly" he gives his flapping act.

He also says, among other words, "tsoo" (shoe), "doh" (dog), "Tsachie" (our dog's name, Sachie), "boon" (balloon), "ba" (ball), and "ca" (car). At the recent B.C. Product Fair he rode boldly by himself in the little cars and the little horses of the midway, and clamored for a helium "boon" until he got one.

* * *

One mallard has raised a family of 12 ducklings, which she leads past our wharf, stopping for bread. I hear the Canada geese have hatched a family of six, but I haven't seen them so far.

Small boys of the neighborhood appear on our float without troubling to ask permission, and catch sunfish by the dozen. What they do with the fish is a mystery. The other day they caught several bass. The bass are spawning now, and they take a worm so readily that it's sheer murder. Unfortunately there is no way to stop the young fish-hogs, because what they are doing is perfectly legal.

Our long overdue vegetable garden has still not been planted, but we have increased our reputation as eccentrics by eating such unlikely greens as nettle tops and bracken shoots. Now those herbs are getting coarse, but there are dandelion leaves for salads. "What do you do with those?" asks a neighbor boy. "You don't eat them? You don't really EAT them."

And so the year rolls on.

A SHERLOCK HOLMES STORY

Hound of the Baskervilles

BY
SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

(Published by arrangement with the estate of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. World rights reserved. Illustrations copyrighted, 1954, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A country doctor, James Mortimer, has read to Sherlock Holmes and Dr Watson the gruesome story of the hellhound that killed the evil Sir Hugo Baskerville centuries before.

When Dr. Mortimer had finished reading this singular narrative he pushed his spectacles up on his forehead and stared at Sherlock Holmes. The latter yawned and tossed the end of his cigarette into the fire.

"Well?" said he. "Do you not find it interesting?"

"To a collector of fairy tales."

Dr. Mortimer drew a folded newspaper out of his pocket.

"Now, Mr. Holmes, we will give you something a little more recent. This is the Devon County Chronicle of May 14 of this year. It is a short account of the facts elicited at the death of Sir Charles Baskerville which occurred a few days before that date." Our visitor readjusted his glasses and began:

"The recent sudden death of Sir Charles Baskerville, whose name has been mentioned as the probable Liberal candidate for Mid-Devon at the next election, has cast a gloom over the county. Though Sir Charles had resided at Baskerville Hall for a comparatively short period, he had won the affection of all who had been brought into contact with him. Being himself childless, it was his openly expressed desire that the whole countryside should, within his own lifetime, profit by his good fortune, and many will have personal reasons for bewailing his untimely end. His generous donations to local and county charities have been frequently chronicled in these columns.

"The circumstances connected with the death of Sir Charles cannot be said to have been entirely cleared up by the inquest, but at least enough has been done to dispose of those rumors to which local superstition has given rise. There is no reason whatever to suspect foul play, or to imagine that death could be from any but natural causes. Sir Charles was a widower, and a man who may be said to have been in some ways of an eccentric habit of mind. In spite of his considerable wealth he was simple in his personal tastes, and his indoor servants at Baskerville Hall consisted of a married couple named Barrymore, the husband acting as butler and the wife as housekeeper. Their evidence, corroborated by that of several friends, tends to show that Sir Charles' health has for some time been impaired, and points especially to some affection of the heart, manifesting itself in changes of color, breathlessness and acute attacks of nervous depression. Dr. James Mortimer, the friend and medical attendant of the deceased, has given evidence to the same effect.

"The facts of the case are simple. Sir Charles was in the habit every night before going to bed of walking down the famous yew alley of Baskerville Hall. On the fourth of May he had declared his intention of starting next day for London, and had ordered Barrymore to prepare his luggage. That night he went out as usual for his walk, in the course of which he was in the habit of smoking a cigar. He never returned. At 12 o'clock, Barrymore, finding the hall door still open, became alarmed, and lighting a lantern, went in search of his master. The day had been wet, and Sir Charles' footmarks were easily traced halfway down the alley where there is a gate which leads out on to the moor. There were indications that Sir Charles had stood for some little time here. He then proceeded down the alley, and it was at the far end of it that his body was discovered. One odd fact is the statement of Barrymore that his master's footprints altered their character from the time that he passed the moor-gate, and that he appeared from thence onward to have been walking on his toes. One Murphy, a gipsy horse-dealer, was on the moor at no great distance at the time, but he appears by his own confession to have been worse than drunk. He declares that he heard cries, but is unable to state from what direction they came.

No signs of violence were discovered upon Sir Charles's person and, though the doctor's evidence pointed to an almost incredible facial distortion—so great that Dr. Mortimer refused at first to believe that it was indeed his friend and patient who lay before him—it was explained that that is a symptom which is not unusual in cases of dyspnoea and death from cardiac exhaustion. This explanation was borne out by the post-mortem examination. The coroner's jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence.

"It is understood that the next of kin is Mr. Henry Baskerville, if he be still alive, the son of Sir Charles Baskerville's younger brother. The young man, when last heard of, was in America."

Dr. Mortimer refolded the newspaper and replaced it in his pocket. "Those are the public facts, Mr. Holmes, in connection with the death of Sir Charles Baskerville."

McCarthy Mood Getting Ugly

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ugly. It's probably the best word to describe what it will be like from now on in the Senate hearing on Senator McCarthy's row with U.S. Army officials. McCarthy has tried to minimize the importance of the hearing, calling it a burlesque and a circus. Now that it's due to go on to the bitter end his political life may be at stake.

Army Secretary Robert Stevens was willing to put his public like a man who thought he was surrounded by enemies.

He accused two of the senator—Democrats Symington of Missouri and Jackson of Washington—of trying to obstruct his hunt for Communists.

He turned on a fellow Republican on the committee, a man he himself had nominated, Senator Dworshak of Idaho, and told him he was sorry he had chosen him.

He repeatedly insinuated Stevens was lying and belittled the secretary's intelligence. Twice he accused Joseph N. Welch, counsel to Stevens and Adams, of breaking agreements which Welch said never existed.

And he tried to humiliate Hensel, who hadn't said a word, by suggesting that army officers sitting near him were lending him a dignity he didn't deserve and should move away.

His tactics have become rougher as the days pass. If he has reached this point while the cards were still all in his hands, what's his mood going to be now that Carr have to stand up, maybe for weeks, under army cross-examination?

to agree to shorten the hearing by letting the whole business disappear from public view once McCarthy had testified.

He took the position that not only McCarthy but the senator's two aides in the case, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, should have to face the same kind of cross-examination he did. Stevens was a witness for 11 days.

This meant, of course, the same treatment for the other two principals on his side of the case, army counsel John G. Adams and H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense.

More and more as the days pass, McCarthy has been acting

Gold Found In Honduras

BELIZE, British Honduras (CP)—Gold has been found in this central American British colony, a government geologist disclosed Wednesday night. He said the gold was found in tributaries of two rivers and the head of another river is a possible source of more.

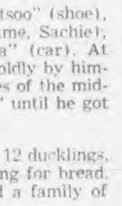
Weed Killer Good Now



BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

This is just about the best time of the year for applying a selective weed killer to the lawn. It is necessary, however, to choose suitable weather for the job if you're going to get the best results. The ideal condition is warm, settled weather when there is enough moisture in the soil to promote quick plant growth.

These chemicals don't work very well in really dry spells, as the leaves of the weeds become hard and leathery, and they don't absorb the 2-4-D as they should. Light rain before or after treatment won't effect the kill too much, but if really heavy showers occur shortly after the weed killer is applied, a second treatment may be necessary.

Never apply on a windy day, as the mist may drift onto the flower borders and do considerable damage. Personally, I prefer a watering can to a sprayer, spot-treating weedy patches with the nose of the can held close to the ground. There is practically no danger of mist damage this way.

Don't ever get it into your head that because a little 2-4-D is good, a lot would be better. Never use a stronger concentration of the chemical than called for in the instructions on the bottle or package, for it is possible to kill the grass with too strong a solution.

The selective weed killers affect all plants—the selective action is secured only because grass and cereals are more resistant than the broad-leafed plants.

Don't expect a quick, knock-down effect. These weed killers act relatively slowly, and it usually takes from three to six weeks after application before the weeds finally vanish. The first effects, though, can be seen in about a week, especially in dandelions and daisies, in the form of twisted, distorted foliage.

It is a good idea to give the lawn a dressing of fertilizer about a week before treatment. This starts the weeds into rapid growth, making them more receptive to the chamical, and helps the grass to close in over the spots occupied by the weeds as they die. It is best not to cut or roll the lawn for a few days after treatment, or even to walk on it any more than necessary.

I find that dandelions and daisies are usually knocked out in one treatment if you catch them when their growth is young and vigorous. Old-timers in the lawn may require a second dose. Plantains and creeping buttercups are easy victims, too, but chickweed and clover are tougher and may need three treatments. The chemicals sold for the control of crab grass work well on chickweed, and there is a specific called Endothal which clears clover out of the lawn in an almost magical fashion.

Bracken and moss are resistant and cannot be controlled with 2-4-D.

Big Red Attack Hits French Post South of Hanoi

HANOI (UP) —Waves of Communist troops swept over French defenses some 35 miles south of Hanoi Thursday and temporarily captured a French battalion commander in the biggest battle since Dien Bien Phu.

Red troops captured a French command post outside Phu Ly, key transport town on the south flank of the Hanoi defense ring.

The high command said French union forces managed to regroup and launched a counter-attack. They found the battalion commander with his arms lashed behind his back.

In another action, a military spokesman said a mobile French battalion was ambushed by Communist units on a nearby highway. French losses in both actions were described officially as "serious."

Earlier, the high command announced that thousands of Communists had broken into the town of Phu Ly itself but were driven out.

It withheld word as to how acute the plight of Phu Ly was, and did not disclose the strength of the French Union garrison.

East of Hanoi, along the highway and railroad linking it with the port city of Haiphong, other Franco-Viet Namese battalions guarding the traffic artery which carries American aid inland from the docks.

Red saboteurs blew up two trains between Hanoi and Haiphong Thursday with radio-controlled mines buried between the ties.

In another sector of the Hanoi front, strong Communist elements ambushed a French and Viet Nam patrol on route 1 Thursday 18 miles south of the city. Sherman tanks, firing 90-millimeter cannon, routed the Reds after two hours of violent combat. An official spokesman said Red losses were "enormous" and those of the French "appreciable."

Increased rebel pressure was reported virtually everywhere around Hanoi.

The army disclosed that a team of Red commandos recently raided the community of Hadong, six miles from Hanoi, and destroyed a gasoline depot.

Convict-Author Gets More Time

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UP)—assaulted by the convict said Superior Judge Thomas Keating has ordered a stay of execution for convict-author Caryl Chessman who was scheduled to die at 10 a.m. today in the gas chamber at San Quentin.

The judge granted a stay on the grounds that the Los Angeles trial judge was "defrauded" into certifying a false transcript of the trial.

The delay means Chessman will live at least another 60 days.

The 32-year-old kidnapper lost his strongest hope for life yesterday morning when Governor Goodwin J. Knight flatly refused to grant him a reprieve.

TERSE REFUSAL

In a terse announcement released from his Sacramento office, the governor said:

"This is the case of a man who was convicted of a series of vicious attacks on girls and young women. He had a fair trial and has taken advantage of every avenue of appeal. Our laws do not provide for the government to sit as a supreme court. The people of this state enacted these laws and I have no right to oppose their will unless it is apparent that there has been an unfair trial or a miscarriage of justice."

Chessman was sentenced to death under California's "Little Lindbergh Law" which provides the extreme penalty for kidnapping with bodily harm. He was convicted six years ago on 17 counts of kidnapping, rape, robbery, grand theft and perversion.

ANGRY CITY

In Los Angeles where feeling is still high over the vicious nature of Chessman's crimes, a wave of protests arose against the pleas of leniency for him.

The mother of a 17-year-old girl who has been confined to a mental institution since she was assaulted by the convict said she hoped Chessman's execution "will release my daughter from the fear she has been under."

She said she was told by psychiatrists that the death of Chessman might serve as the trigger that would snap her daughter back to sanity.

Superior Judge Charles J. Fricke, who sentenced Chessman to death, said he had "never had less sympathy for [illegible] Chessman's crime was "worse than murder."

The condemned man recently won nationwide attention with the publication of his prison-written autobiography "Cell 2455 Death Row." The book has been described by critics as "astounding" and "brilliant."

Adams Denies Charges By McCarthy Under Oath

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army counsel John G. Adams denied under oath Thursday he ever tried to buy off a McCarthy investigation of the army by offering tips on the navy or air force as "bigger bait."

This is one of the more serious charges hurled at Adams by Senator Joseph McCarthy and his aides. Calmly, in a day of rapid-fire cross-examination, the army lawyer denied that one and also [illegible] charges, among them:

- That army officials gave special treatment to Pte. G. David Schine to curry favor with the McCarthy committee.
- That Adams "leaked" to the press a series of charges against McCarthy aides—mainly against Roy M. Cohn — to block subpoenaing of army security-loyalty board members.
- That Adams tried to sponge a free prize-fight ticket from Schine and did accept free theatre tickets from Cohn.
- That Adams tried to wangle a $25,000 a year law partnership through Cohn.

The high-strung but low-voiced army lawyer did accept the truth of one allegation — that he telephoned Maj.-Gen. Kirke Lawton at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., and asked him to withdraw security risk charges against nine persons.

Adams said he did so because army department screening officials felt there wasn't enough evidence to justify a case.

H-Bomb Tests Concluded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. exploded its fourth — and perhaps its fifth — hydrogen bomb of the year during the last few days, it was reported Thursday night.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the department of defence jointly announced successful completion of the 1954 series of "thermonuclear weapons" tests in the Pacific.

There was no mention in the announcement of how many explosions there were. But three blasts previously have been reported—on March 1, March 26 and April 6. And it was understood there has been at least one more blast during the last week or so.

The time lag since April 6 was sufficient for at least one more explosion. And there were indications that, while the fourth explosion of the year went off at the Bikini proving ground, a fifth shot could have been made at Eniwetok atoll.

The joint announcement declared the tests in 1952 were successful in the development of thermonuclear weapons. Further, it called these tests essential to national security and said they "contributed materially" to the security of the United States and the whole free world.

Costello Convicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Costello, once the king of gamblers, was convicted Thursday night on three counts of federal income tax evasion.

The 63-year-old Costello, dressed conservatively as any banker, bowed his head as the jury foreman announced the verdict.

It was the third time in his checkered career that Costello was convicted of a crime.

Costello faces a possible total of 15 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Laniel Supported By Slim Margin

PARIS (CP) — Two votes in the National Assembly saved France from a government collapse Thursday night in the face of a growing military crisis in Indo-China.

Premier Joseph Laniel won a vote of confidence on his Indo-China policy by the slim margin of 289 to 287 just one week after the fall of the Indo-China fortress of Dien Bien Phu. The vote was one of the closest in French parliamentary history.

Defeat would have ended his 10-month administration and left France leaderless with the Geneva conference in full swing and the Communist-led Viet minh rebels tightening their drive in Indo-China after capture of Dien Bien Phu last Friday.

MARGIN PLUMMETS

Just a week ago Laniel received a 51-vote margin in another vote of confidence on the same subject—his desire to postpone full-scale debate on Indo-China until Geneva negotiations end.

Laniel appealed directly to French pride and patriotism to gain Thursday's victory.

"A cabinet crisis now would inevitably help the spirit of capitulation at Geneva," he said during a determined hour-long speech. The closeness of the vote left Laniel's prestige and position sharply reduced.

Only a few hours before the crucial balloting two members of his cabinet resigned.

Pierre Ferri, minister for posts, telephone and telegraph, and Henri Ulver, secretary of state for the budge, quit after a majority of their party members said they intended to vote against Laniel.

The cabinet itself has been sharply divided on many issues in recent weeks and Thursday night's vote reflected the many differences of opinion. Several parties of the government majority split their votes.

Pearson Asks Change In South Korean Stand

GENEVA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson, at a family gathering of the UN countries which fought in Korea, Thursday made a direct plea to South Korea to agree to the more reasonable proposals.

At Thursday's plenary session, Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain outlined a five-point plan, said to reflect Canada's position extremely well:

Elections for an all-Korean government.

These elections should truly reflect the people's will, taking account of the distribution of the population between North and South Korea.

Elections, based on universal adult suffrage and the secret ballot, should be held as soon as possible in conditions of genuine freedom.

International supervision, which should be under the auspices of the UN. Countries selected need not necessarily be those who fought in Korea, and there could be a panel of countries acceptable to the conference.

Any plan for a Korean settlement must provide the conditions in which foreign troops can be withdrawn.

The Battle of the Atlantic

CHURCH services throughout Canada on Sunday will mark the Battle of the Atlantic's anniversary and memories which recall one of the epic defenses of the Allied nations during the late war when the U-boat attacks were at their height. Canada played an important part in the day by day struggle of the ship convoys to get through the wolf-packs which infested the shipping lanes. Had the submarine won out the war might have had a different ending, and certainly it would have lasted much longer than it did.

The Battle of the Atlantic was won by numbers of individuals serving in a great variety of ways. It concerned naval intelligence in offices never heard of by the public; on-shore assembling of convoys, their food, protection and supplies; thousands of men in the blue dungarees of the merchant service; trim naval craft which for days and nights on end were never out of action; long sea miles with their bleak winds and the chill danger of a sudden torpedo in the night. Nor was the response by sea alone, for air escorts and reconnaissance were used at both sides of the ocean with effect.

Books have been written since to depict something of the bravery of the convoy seamen and their escorts in this grim struggle for mastery. It is doubtful if any book will ever recapture the whole epic story. Ship's crews were put down time after time, and the survivors signed on to sail again. Officers of the watch stayed on duty until from exhaustion they dropped. Crippled ships went down three, five and seven at one time in a convoy. The human losses amounted appallingly. The toll in Allied shipping became critical and at the danger point. The wolf packs only grew.

When the tide turned in the Allies' favor the Battle of the Atlantic had become one of the great and decisive engagements of the war. Victory came through the courage of men who would not give in no matter what the odds, men with calm faith in the rightness of their cause. On Sunday Canada will have very bright memories to recall with pride. The part of Canadians in the Battle of the Atlantic was a key one, and never did men stand to their tasks with more daring in an active theatre of war.

Politics Should Be Eschewed

REPORTS from Ottawa suggest that two well-known officers, Brigadiers John Rockingham and Jean Allard, are in the running for command of the Canadian Army's First Division. This is the widely scattered but recently designated formation cited as the first to be organized in peacetime as of divisional status. In keeping with the importance of the appointment command of the division will mean elevation to the rank of major-general for whichever brigadier is chosen.

Victorians naturally will have a preference for Brigadier Rockingham since he is one of themselves. On the basis of aptitude and experience, however, it would appear that either officer would fill the bill capably. Both rose from junior rank in the war to responsible command, both were decorated for gallantry, and each in turn commanded the Canadian brigade which fought in Korea. They are much of an age and each is of strong military personality.

A peculiar sidelight of the Ottawa news report in this matter is the intimation that while the army itself favors one officer the cabinet is said to favor the other. Since there is seldom smoke without fire it can be assumed there is validity in this piece of information and the query arises: how does the cabinet fit into the picture? Military officers should be picked for their commands without benefit of political considerations.

One can understand perfectly that the civilian head of the defense department would be interested in its senior service commanders, and even that he should have some personal opinion on the subject, but if the army itself does not have the dominant say in appointments of this level then something is amiss in the Canadian military set-up. Selection of the First Division's commander should depend entirely on the military merits of the individual officers concerned and on nothing else. As for the cabinet as a whole it should attend to its own knitting.

Situation Developing

HIGH water at several points along the line of the Trans-Canada Highway through British Columbia and flash flooding at Kelowna and elsewhere point to a developing flood threat which might come to a head very quickly, or recede and dissipate itself in a checked run-off. It is a matter of luck what the weather will bring in the next 10 days, and they are the critical ones for the province in the present position. Abnormal snowfall and rain fell during the winter, and packed snows have retained a tremendous volume of water which can come down fast with the advent of warm weather. If luck holds there may be no serious threat.

It is not advisable, however, to trust to luck in a situation where a few warm nights and continuous run-off from the hills could put a number of British Columbia communities simultaneously and directly in danger of serious flood damage. Using the disaster of 1948 as a guide the province and the settlements affected should treat the threat as actual and prepare to meet it. There will be dikes to shore up, highways to keep open, livestock to be driven to higher ground, and perhaps scores of dispossessed families temporarily to be housed and fed if the river systems go out under this mounting pressure.

For valley communities definitely in the path of the water if flooding comes, emergency standby accommodation should be at least assembled and held in readiness. The department of national defense through its various posts in British Columbia would be able to make tents and marquees available, and no doubt would be ready to assist in erecting them also should the need arise. The point to be remembered is that if there is any serious degree of flooding, from the present circumstances it could be both long and exceptionally heavy. So if an emergency comes through this cause it will not be a little one, but something much more likely to match the floods of 1948. Much can be done even so to lessen the loss and reduce its toll.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

THE Queen gets back to London tomorrow and the crowds, I read, are settling down on the curbs to see her pass by. If a certain lady is among them I hope her luck is better this time.

Last year she sat near Trafalgar Square for two damp nights, agog to see the Coronation procession. And lo, on the great day, just as the golden coach approached her, she fainted and was carried away on a stretcher.

And she never did see the Queen.

As a feminine U.S. columnist puts it, Londoners "are going to give this gallant little girl a big hand," and then she goes on to hope they "will also give her a medal for bravery and six months off for good behavior." This of course in reference to the social ordeal she has come through.

If recent pictures are a criterion the Queen is drawn and thin as a result of the six-month Royal tour from down under. But for Londoners her smile will be a halo.

Incredible to think, for me I mean, that it will be a year tomorrow since I too landed in London, agog like the lady I mentioned to see the Queen. Happily on the great day I didn't faint.

A young chap I know has just come back from the East, deprived of his ambition to be an RCAF pilot because of a medical test. Something to do with his heart.

He never knew anything was wrong with it. He is an athlete and plays strenuous games; and he passed an air force "medical" here. A frightful waste of taxpayers' money, surely, if recruits are examined and accepted, shipped East at government expense to be re-examined, and then shipped back home rejected.

This incident highlights the matter of physical fitness. In lush times, that is when recruiting is good, service standards are almost beyond human attainment. Indeed, if these were to rule among civilians half the population would be in bed, listed as cripples. Yea, even though some of them might be able to play Canadian football and then live to a ripe old age.

In war of course, or when recruiting lags, the standards come down with a bang, and then the cripples go on blithely to cope with every physical demand that's made of them. Page 1939-45 for example.

All of which makes some of these military "medicals" seem rather suspect, as though they sought the impossible.

I see the Canadian Scottish are preparing to celebrate the D-Day anniversary of June 6. They are to have a smoker or something, one of those reunion occasions that are balm to a veteran's heart.

If any good comes out of wars, and some does you know as a by-product, then it's seen at its best at a regimental or similar reunion. This is when the flower of friendship opens its petals and companionship is blessed. Strong indeed is the cord that binds wartime comrades.

It is almost ten years now since the European D-Day, that epic assault on the Normandy coast, and yet in retrospect it seems but yesterday. How the years fly.

On Sunday, too, other veterans will be recalling the Battle of the Atlantic, the long drawn-out conflict of the convoys that in those days seemed endless. No doubt they will chuckle and reminisce with gusto, for time puts a gloss on war service and the borne hardships fade into the background. There will be compassionate thought too, however, for those who must always be absent.

International Commentary

Malenkov and Soviet Policy

By MAURICE LATEY, From London

AT a time when the whole world is attentively watching every move of Mr. Molotov and Mr. Chou En-Lai at Geneva for any sign of a change in Communist tactics an indication of the overall strategic aims of the Soviet Bloc is of particular importance. Have these aims been adapted to the realities of the atomic age, to the menace of the hydrogen bomb? Does the directive to which the Soviet foreign minister is working at Geneva differ markedly from the pattern which has resulted in frustration at so many international conferences in the past?

The broad survey of all aspects of policy both at home and abroad which the Soviet prime minister, Mr. Malenkov, has just given to the Soviet of Nationalities provides at least a clue to the answer to these questions.

It is an ambiguous indication because Mr. Malenkov followed a familiar pattern in taking back with his left hand what he gave away with the right. Thus he spoke of an easing of international tension but in the same breath accused the Western Powers of aggressive intentions, of provoking the extension of the war in Indo-China, of building up West German militarists as a threat to European security, of preparing Japan as "the mailed fist of new imperialist aggression in Asia."

He spoke of the Soviet desire for increased trade, but in the same breath accused the United States of compelling other countries to discriminate against the Soviet Union. He spoke of the possibility of peaceful co-existence between the capitalist and socialist systems, but in the same breath reminded his listeners—amidst, so we are told, prolonged stormy applause—that as a result of two world wars, already more than a third of mankind had, as he put it, "forever broken with capitalism." Another world war "would inevitably lead to the ruin of the capitalist social system."

There is here an echo of that fatal Stalinist logic which can only be described as suicidal of the Soviet government's political thinking, and the dangers of the hydrogen bomb have apparently made very little impression. The Soviet prime minister repeats the familiar demand for the banning of the atomic weapon and for a reduction in armaments. But he shows no sign of any willingness to accept that restriction of national sovereignty which is necessary for any system of control and inspection, that would make this prohibition and disarmament feasible.

Indeed, he says: "The theory, according to which the era of sovereign states has allegedly passed, is the greatest perversion of the truth." He reserves his most bitter attack for the attempt to end the age-old feud between France and Germany by a voluntary merging of sovereignties in the European Defense Community.

As far as Asia is concerned, Mr. Malenkov declares that there can be no further easing of international tension without "the normalization of relations" with the Chinese People's Republic. But the main bar to this "normalization of relations" is, of course, the wars of aggression that have been or are being waged by Communist minorities in Korea, Indo-China, Malaya and elsewhere.

One is driven, therefore, to the conclusion that when Mr. Malenkov speaks of "peaceful co-existence" he is pursuing much the same tactics as Stalin repeatedly did in the past—that, in fact, peaceful co-existence in the Soviet vocabulary means precisely the same as "the cold war" does to the rest of the world.

A Famous Name

From Cars to Jets

FIFTY years ago two men met in in Manchester, England. From this meeting came a household word which has long been synonymous with progress in aircraft engineering—Rolls-Royce.

Henry Royce, an electrical engineer, began to design and manufacture cars in 1904. In the same year he met the Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls, who raced and sold cars, mainly those built on the Continent. In 1904, Rolls drove a Royce car, arranged to meet its designer, and as a result the two men went into partnership.

Rolls was an enthusiastic balloonist, and after meeting the Wright brothers he became an enthusiastic aviator. He was killed while flying at Bournemouth in 1910.

The first famous Rolls-Royce aero engine was the Eagle, which powered more than half the Allied aircraft in the First World War. The Eagle was on test six months after design work began—a remarkable contrast with the time necessary to complete design work on the engines of today. The Eagle was a liquid-cooled Vee type of 12 cylinders arranged in two banks of six, mounted at an angle of 60 degrees on crankcase.

The year after the end of the war, an Eagle-powered Vimy made the first non-stop crossing of the Atlantic. In the same year a similar aircraft made the first flight from England to Australia.

In the ten years from 1914, Rolls-Royce built over 7,000 aero engines. In 1925, work began on the "F" series, later called the Kestrel. Nearly 5,000 Kestrel engines were built, and the engine saw service in 21 countries overseas. Power was developed from 480 to 785 h.p.

In 1929, Rolls-Royce began development of the "R" engine which, installed in the Supermarine seaplanes, helped to win the Schneider Trophy outright for Great Britain. These racing engines were developed to give over 2,500 h.p.

In 1932, work began on another development, the Merlin, which was to be so important an engine in the 1935-45 war, as the power-plant of the Spitfire, Hurricane, Lancaster, American-built Mustang, and 17 other types of aircraft.

Following the Merlin came the Griffon. This was developed initially to give 1,340 h.p., and now, installed in the Shackleton, is rated at 2,455 h.p.

The first Rolls-Royce gas-turbine, the Welland jet, was tested in 1943, and in the same year design of the Derwent began. The following year work began on the Nene and the Welland, the only Allied jet to go into service during the war, was installed in the Meteor. The Dart turboprop was installed in 1948 in the Viscount airliner, and its power has been progressively increased. The Avon first flew in 1948.

Rolls-Royce jet engines have since been sold to, and manufactured under license in, many overseas countries, notably in the United States. Today over 185,000 gas turbines to Rolls-Royce design have been produced, and British-built engines have alone flown over 2¾ million flying hours.

Interpreting the News

Bipartisan Foreign Policy

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

PRESIDENT Eisenhower and Senator Knowland have now, in effect, apologized for some of the wilder partisan statements made against the Democrats.

Secretary Dulles has reiterated his determination to conduct foreign policy on a bipartisan basis as far as possible.

* * *

The president even went so far as to say that when it came to loyalty to the nation, he didn't see that party affiliation meant anything.

When it comes to foreign policy, the wisest thing all of them could do now would be to drop the argument.

* * *

The basic policy was initiated by the Democrats, and is being continued by the Republicans. Like the foreign policy of all nations, it is national policy, based on national interests and the circumstances of the times, founded in the long run on the relative positions of friendly and unfriendly nations.

Ever since the death of Senator Vandenberg, in whom both Republicans and Democrats put such faith, there has been difficulty in the mechanics of conducting not a bipartisan policy, which it is, but in conducting it partisanly.

* * *

It is only natural that in times of crisis men would develop strong feelings and make strong statements. But the United States faces a serious situation of a nature it has not faced before.

If the other nations accept the Dulles idea of a fighting Pacific pact the United States must decide about entering a calculated war, as against previous wars into which she has been dragged by direct enemy action.

* * *

If that decision is to be wisely made, it must be done by men who have put aside all thought of partisan gain or personal position in favor of acting solely in the general interests of the nation.

ON the downtown corner, a dejected expressionless little man was playing the concertina thinly. Behind his legs, and huddled against the stone wall of the building, stood an extremely small, elderly, grizzled dog. It was no bigger than a cat. It had a snipey, pinched nose, its head was drawn tight into its shoulders.

It never moved.

Into the tip cup pinned to the concertina player's coat front, the coins clinked. My wife was ahead of me. She paused as she passed the musician and took a dime from her purse and dropped it. I was next. I hastily fished up a coin and dropped it.

"Was that chap blind?" I asked, overtaking my wife.

"Why, I didn't notice!" she said. "It was that little dog I saw, in behind his legs. So motionless, so old-looking . . ."

I told my wife I would follow her later and meet her in the book department of the store we were heading for. I went back and stood a few yards up street from the concertina player.

One in five of those who passed him dropped a coin in his cup. Some went past and then returned to make their contribution. The number who contributed was about the same whether he was playing the concertina or standing silent, the instrument held soundless before him. But as far as I could see, every one who dropped a coin looked at the grizzled forlorn little dog huddled in behind his master's ankles, motionless, patient, barely moving his head.

He was not a particularly appealing dog.

When I left my observation post, I overtook the last contributor to the tin cup and asked:

"Was that chap blind, back there, with the concertina?"

"Say, I didn't notice," replied the stranger. "It was the little dog caught my eye . . ."

What is it about the association of a man and a dog, especially the association of a poor man and a forlorn dog that, in combination, tugs some particular cord to our hearts?

The girl stopped powdering her nose and informed him, "Everything on aviation in Room 123."

The house at Brunau, Austria, where Adolf Hitler was born, was, according to plans made before 1945, to be converted into a shrine for all true Nazis. But times have changed.

A short while ago a court returned the house to the daughter of its former owner. The latter had bought it when the Hitler family moved to Linz.

The new owner has declared she will convert it into a tavern.

President Eisenhower yesterday signed the bill authorizing U.S. participation in the St. Lawrence seaway. It empowers a St. Lawrence Development Corporation to raise through the U.S. treasury the $105,000,000 thought to be the U.S. share of the cost if she joins Canada in the undertaking. Actual construction, on which Canada has been waiting to proceed alone, still awaits removal of a legal objection stalling the accompanying St. Lawrence power project.

Eat and Grow Younger

Diet Program Purposely Simple, Flexible

This is another in a series of daily articles from the best-selling book, "Eat and Grow Younger," which provides invaluable information on nutrition, and one of the simplest and most effective of diets. By following the tenets set out here, you can literally eat and grow younger.

BY LELORD KORDEL

Purposely I have kept your [illegible] program simple and easy to follow in order to make it flexible enough to fit anyone, under whatever personal condition or circumstance, in any place.

I could give you a detailed diet program, hour by hour and meal by meal, throughout the day but it is far better to have a flexible, readily adaptable basic menu and follow its principles.

Instead of a set of detailed menus I have prepared adaptable diet schedules applicable to different conditions. I will include a rather comprehensive set of recipes, so you may substitute one scheduled item for another.

MAY INTERCHANGE

High-protein dishes (those containing meats, fish and poultry, cheese, milk, sour cream, buttermilk, eggs, seed cereals and protein meat substitutes) may be interchanged from one day's menu to another without upsetting a calculated daily protein intake of 150 to 165 grams.

After trying the basic menu for a while, if you find that this amount of daily protein does not quite meet your full energy requirements, you may increase your intake.

An inexpensive way of obtaining increased protein (extra calcium, too) is by adding as much as six to eight tablespoons of powdered skim milk to various dishes and beverages throughout the day. Cottage cheese, too, provides another [illegible] and calcium) food. Sunflower seed kernels and meal, millet and sesame seeds are valuable sources of high proteins, minerals and vitamins.

EFFECTIVE BOOST

Addition of three to four tablespoons of any of these seed cereals to the daily diet yields an effective increase in grams of high-grade protein, together with other essential nutrients.

Honey, maple syrup, sorghum molasses, raw sugar or a good grade of brown sugar are the only sweeteners permitted. If you cheat and use white sugar, you'll only be defrauding your own body. Keep a pot of pure blossom honey on the table; in fact replace the sugar bowl with the honey pot.

If you are a vegetarian, you may replace the meat dishes with the protein meat substitute recipes (or similar ones) to be given later. However, for the sake of your health, I hope you're a vegetarian with no prejudices against eggs, milk and cheese.

NOT MONOTONOUS

Planned diet most certainly does not mean "monotonous" diet. [illegible] high-protein, low-starch meals can be equally delicious and satisfying.

Moreover, if food gives you a real taste thrill, you actually eat less, are better nourished and avoid the dangers of overeating.

The one basic dietary rule underlying all the menus and recipes to be provided for you is this: Increase your daily protein intake to at least 150 to 165 grams (more of you've been ill, are planning a reducing diet or indulge in strenuous physical activities); limit the starches and sugars to natural carbohydrates found in vitamin-and-mineral-rich fruits, vegetables, honey, unrefined raw sugar or molasses, whole grains and seed cereals.

TRY THIS

By adding a good mineral concentrate and a "laboratory-fresh" multiple-vitamin formula, you can eliminate any [illegible] vitamins.

If you've always seasoned with "salt, pepper and onions" as 99 per cent of the cook books so unimaginatively specify, learn to use herbs and herb-flavored salt and experiment with other seasonings.

For instance, why ruin the [illegible] remain youthful many years superb flavor of a broiled steak past your so-called "prime" if by dusting it liberally with only you don't help fasten the black pepper, then dousing it shackles of a premature old age with a condiment sauce? In- on yourself every time you sit stead, try rubbing a steak down at the table. lightly with garlic-flavored oil before it goes into the broiler—the oil helps seal the juices—salt to taste after it comes from the broiler, squeeze a few drops of lemon juice over both sides, then drop on a piece of butter [illegible]

LONDON (AP)—The admiralty says the Royal Navy's newest aircraft carrier, the angle-decked HMS Centaur, has given satisfaction in its trials and will go into service before the end of 1954. The 737-foot Centaur's angled deck, described by the admiralty as the world's first, permits a longer run for take-offs and landings, and two usable decks.

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains moved in erratic fashion within narrow price limits on the board of trade. Dealings were slow.

Old crop soybeans and rye showed the most strength.

In contrast, wheat was lower for most of the session, although recovering toward the finish.

A lot happened in the major leagues yesterday but the feature news was made by Robin Roberts, star lefthander of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Roberts lost a perfect game because of a first-inning mistake to the game's first batter. Pitching against Cincinnati Reds, Roberts was touched for a lead-off home run by Bobby Adams, then set down the next 27 hitters in a row to win his fourth game, 8-1, as his teammates hit solidly behind him. He struck out eight.

It was Roberts' second one-hitter of the season but Adams' home run deprived him of the first perfect game since Charlie Robertson pitched one for the Detroit Tigers in 1922.

Roberts' pitching kept the Phils ahead in the National League but the race stayed close as all other first-division clubs also won.

DODGERS BREEZE

The second-place Brooklyn Dodgers stayed a half game off the pace by trimming St. Louis Cardinals as youthful southpaw Johnny Podres eased to his fourth straight win. Jackie Robinson led the Dodgers at the plate with a triple, double and single and batted in three runs. Stan Musial continued his fine hitting by picking up two of the Cards' 10 hits. It was the 12th straight loss for St. Louis at Ebbetts Field.

New York Giants stayed in third place, another half game back, by scoring their fifth straight win, a 6-3 conquest of Chicago Cubs. The Giants took the home-run route to victory as Monte Irvin hit two out of the park and Hank Thompson, Willie Mays and Ebba St. Claire each hit one.

Milwaukee Braves moved into a fourth-place tie in the other game by getting past Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2.

INDIANS IN RALLY

Over in the American League, Cleveland Indians made the news as they erupted for six runs in the ninth inning to gain a 7-7 tie and then scored in the 11th to beat the luckless Washington Senators, 8-7. Al Rosen doubled in the winning run after igniting the ninth-inning uprising with a home run. A bases-loaded double by Dave Philley tied the score with two out. The win, the 201st of his career, went to Hal Newhouser.

New York Yankees, despite early-season troubles, moved within a half-game of the lead by besting the league-leading Detroit Tigers, 5-3, on Yogi Berra's two-run 10th-inning home run. Irv Noren tied the score with a two-run double in the eighth.

Chicago White Sox lost ground but stayed in second place as the Philadelphia Athletics ended a seven-game losing streak by scoring two in the ninth to win, 3-2.

Boston Rex Sox routed Baltimore Orioles, 9-1, in the other game.

Scrappy Vs Square Allan Cup Playdown

PENTICTON — Penticton Vs, at their best all season with their backs to the wall, came from behind again last night as they prolonged the Allan Cup hockey final by defeating Sudbury Wolves, 6-4, at Kelowna.

Behind in every series they have played in the playdowns this season, the Vs scored four times in the third period to overcome a 4-2 Sudbury lead, and force the final into a seventh game.

The decider will be played at Penticton Saturday night.

COACH STARS

Still without sparkplug Bill Warwick, out with a leg injury, the Vs were led to victory by another inspired performance by Grant Warwick. The scrappy playing-coach, who has been playing defense and taking a turn up front as well in playing about 50 minutes a game in the last two games, figured in five goals by scoring twice and setting up three other goals.

Wolves, outstanding favorites after taking a 3-1 lead in games, opened fast and twice took one-goal leads in the first period. But Grant Warwick set up Jim Fairburn to tie it at 1-1 and scored himself to make it 2-2. But Wolves went ahead for the third time before the period was over and scored again in the second period to take a 4-2 lead into the final 20 minutes.

Grant Warwick sliced the margin in two at 2:16 and set up brother Dick for the tying goal at 12:02 as the pro-Penticton crowd went wild.

Going all out with five forwards playing almost continuously, Vs finally went ahead when Doug Kilburn scored on a rink-length play with the two Warwicks, Jack McDonald clinched it by scoring into an empty net with 17 seconds left.

BY JIM TANG

It won't be long before the most-often repeated question in Victoria will once again be "on the ladder yet?" For two weeks from Sunday, qualifying fishing starts in the fourth annual ladder derby sponsored by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association. And while it may be difficult to surpass last year's figures, the interest remains high and it will only take good fishing to ensure that 1954 will see a fourth success.

The ladder derby has been the greatest thing which has happened to the VSIAA. The past three years has seen membership increased by more than 50 per cent despite the fact membership cost has doubled and although some official will invariably state at the annual meeting that the ladder derby has lost money, the financial position of the VSIAA has certainly improved considerably since the advent of this popular event.

First ladder derby was staged in 1951 with a new car as the prize for the fish-off and weekly prizes of $100 for each of the 10 weeks of qualifying fishing. A total of 1,457 derby tickets were sold, 376 entrants qualified for the fish-off and senior club membership showed a gain of almost 200 to 1,127.

The next year saw changes made in that weekly prizes were cut to $50, with five prizes, topped by an 18-foot Chris-Craft cabin cruiser complete with 25-hp outboard, offered for the fish-off. A total of 1,569 derby tickets were sold, 427 competed in the fish-off and club membership climbed slightly to 1,157.

Last year's event, blessed by excellent fishing in Saanich Inlet, was the most successful of the three. Senior club membership rose to 1,399, a total of 2,173 derby tickets were bought and 523 anglers competed in the fish-off. Weekly prizes remained the same but 11 prizes were offered for the fish-off with the main prize an Ozarka cabin cruiser.

* * *

This year's event shows only minor changes. There will be 15 prizes for the fish-off and each fishing week in the qualifying period will end on Sunday nights instead of Tuesdays as in the past. Because of the last change, the first week will be eight days long, with fishing starting on Sunday, May 30, and concluding on Sunday night, June 6. Qualifying fishing will end on Sunday, August 8, and the fish-off is scheduled for Sunday, August 28.

Top prize this year is Bryant Corsair convertible cruiser equipped with a 10-horse-power outboard motor. A 14-foot clinker-built inboard complete with a 2½ hp motor. A Westinghouse television set and refrigerator. Singer electric sewing machine, 5½ hp outboard motor, table model radio-gramophone, set of dinner ware, complete trolling outfit, set of binoculars, and Motorola car radio round out the fishing prizes. In another change from other years, fish-off winners may select the prize they want in the order of placing.

In addition, there are four hidden-weight prizes—a clock radio, electric food mixer, pop-up toaster and electric steam iron.

A 1954 VSIAA membership and a derby entrance ticket are all that is required to compete. Fifty anglers each week will qualify for the fish-off.

* * *

Fishing reports this week show that there has been fair fishing for springs in Saanich Inlet. Harry Peard reported from the Anchorage Boathouse last night that fishing was good off Whittaker's Point and down to McKenzie Bay, particularly in the mornings to 11 and in the evenings. Recommended weight is from eight to 16 ounces, while the Strip-Teaser lure has been having the best results. Among those who caught good-sized salmon Wednesday were George Heathfield, Clarence Butler and Peter Lautz, who boated 12, 16½, and 19-pounders, respectively.

At the Goldstream end, the Mac's Squid plug has been the favorite lure and the best catch in that area in recent days was made on Saturday by W. Kirk and partner. They boated five springs, the largest 21½ pounds, and three bluebacks. All were taken on the Squid and Kirk missed out on a bronze button for not being a member of the VSIAA.

Incidentally, anyone who intends to fish in the ladder derby might as well purchase membership immediately just in case they latch on to a button-winner before the derby starts.

Warmer weather has improved trout fishing everywhere, although it is still spotty with success coming easy on some days and failure just as easy on others. Guide Art Hancock reports from the Cowichan River that anglers have been scoring consistently with a dry fly and states that last week's Black ant hatch was "premature" and that the big hatch is still to come.

"We've got to have some more warm weather for that," he said.

Shawnigan Lake is a good bet, particularly for trollers with flatfish, spinner and worm, and trolled orange and yellow-bodied flies recommended lures. The late evening has been good for dry fly addicts.

From Forbes Landing comes word that fishing, both for trollers and fly fishermen, is good and improving steadily.

Britain, Brazil Split Matches

EASTBOURNE, Eng. (AP) — Great Britain and Brazil divided the first two singles matches of their second-round European zone Davis Cup match Thursday.

Tony Mottram won in straight sets from Bob Falkenburg, towering Californian now playing for Brazil, 8-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Campanella is shown at his Long Island home explaining play to sons Roy Jr. and Tony while listening to broadcast of one of Dodgers' road games.

New Hockey Trophy Won by Stampeders

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders, Western Hockey League champions, became the first holders of the Duke of Edinburgh Trophy, emblematic of Canadian professional hockey championship of Canada, here Thursday night when they downed the Quebec Aces 4-2.

The victory, fashioned before 6,551 partisan Calgary fans, allowed the Stampeders to wrap up the best-of-nine series five games to one.

Stampeders opened the playoff with an 8-1 victory and Aces came back with a 2-1 decision in the second game for their only victory of the playoffs. Stampeders took the next game 6-5 in Edmonton and the next two back in Calgary by 7-4 and 2-1 counts to set the stage for Thursday night's wind-up.

The trophy was presented to Stampeder-captain Gus Kyle by WHL-president Al Leader 3m mediately after the game.

Aces, with their backs to the wall, started as though they were going to prolong the series. They took the lead with a goal within the first two minutes of play and then made it 2-0 by the seven-minute mark.

Stampeders battled back to tie the count with two quick goals late in the session and then fired home the only goal of the second period to take a 3-2 lead after 40 minutes of play. They scored the insurance goal late in the third period.

GAME NO. 99

The game marked the end of a long hockey season for both clubs. It was the 99th game played by Calgary this year.

In defeat, Aces never stopped trying. They were at their best in the first period, and with more accuracy around the nets, could have taken a commanding lead.

George Pargeter led Stampeders with two goals and Steve Black and Sid Finney got one each. Larry Regan and Buddy Boone scored for the Aces.

Substitute netminder Jean Marois played another sound game for Aces and had little opportunity on any of the shots that beat him.

Stockers Race Saturday Night

Shearing Speedway officials, promising an increased number of entrants, will stage the second stock-car race meet of the season at their Cobble Hill track Saturday night.

Expected to be on hand are five or six cars from Nanaimo and Mike Newton's new No. 7 machine, which was sidelined with a broken axle, is again ready for action. Digger O'Dell, the Ladysmith wheel-jockey who placed in the second heat last Saturday, is resetting his dirt-track racer and is expected to give the top drivers strong competition.

Among the drivers due to appear Saturday are Ken Nelson, the big winner on opening night, Dave Cooper, Bruce Passmore, Dick Varley and Ray Pottinger.

Time trials start at 8 p.m.

Unwin Brilliant as Bays Hand Sailors 13-0 Defeat

Navy, which scored a surprise 5-4 victory over Jokers in its debut in the Greater Victoria Senior "B" Lacrosse League Monday night, went down to a 13-0 defeat before the powerful Foul Bay club at Stevenson Park last night.

Although outplayed most of the way, the Sailors held a greater share of play than the score would indicate. They earned several good scoring opportunities but were held off the scoresheet by poor shooting and the sparkling performance of goaltender Dave Unwin.

SENSATIONAL FORM

Unwin was in sensational form as he came up with 26 saves in fashioning his shutout. At the other end, Navy goalie Paul LaPointe turned aside 31 of 41 shots directed on his citadel.

Scoring twice without reply in the opening period, the Bays took advantage of a Navy penalty to score three goals in 57 seconds as they added four tallies in the second for a 7-0 halftime lead. Foul Bay led 11-0 going into the final period.

Elmer Matthews fired three goals for Foul Bay while Buzz Hudson, Jack Reid and Mel Davidson each contributed two tallies.

Next league action is scheduled for Memorial Arena Monday night when a two-game card will be presented. Foul Bay and Jokers will meet in the opener at 7, with Navy tangling with Nanaimo at 9.

Last night's scores: Victoria 12, New Westminster 10.

Next game—Tonight—Nanaimo at PNE Indians.

Victoria Shamrocks got more of a tussle than they had bargained for at New Westminster last night as they had to come from behind to edge past the speedy Royals, 12-10, to go Inter-City Lacrosse League game.

It was the third win in a row for the defending champions and the third straight loss for the youthful Royals, who put up a whale of a fight and only faded before the superior experience of the power-packed Islanders in the fourth quarter.

HOLD EDGE

Running with the abandon of youth, the Royals showed little regard for the highly-touted Rocks as they took a 9-7 lead after three quarters and outshot their opponents in three of the quarters.

Only one goal by the Shamrocks was scored in the first quarter but the Royals scored the odd goal in nine to gain a 5-5 tie at half-time and then scored four of the six third-quarter goals to go ahead.

Shamrocks rallied in the final 15 minutes and whipped five goals past Bill Sampson while holding the Royals to a single counter.

Jackie Northup paced the Victorians with three goals while Bob Monaghan, Al Gill and Al Davies, a junior who replaced Norm Baker and played on a line with Gill and Irwin, each scored two. Jack Bionda, the Eastern import who picked up six points in his league debut against Nanaimo on Wednesday night, was held to a lone assist as the Royals pretty well bottled up Victoria's top two lines.

Most of the New Westminster scoring was done by the younger members of the club. Lorne Reelie, a 17-year-old juvenile playing his first lacrosse game, set the pace with three goals. Don Frey, Don Sepka and Ivan Stewart, three of the seven juniors moved up from the New Westminster Salmonaes Minto Cup champions of last season, picked up five goals between them with Sepka and Frey each scoring two.

Tyees Out of Slump To Trim Bears, 12-3

Victoria Tyees, whose hitting was as frigid as the near-freezing Yakima temperatures in the first two games of the series, broke loose at the plate last night to smother the Bears, 12-3, and salvage the final game of the series with some timely hitting.

Held to six hits and only one run in the first two games as they wasted good pitching, the Tyees presented a changed lineup and batting order last night and scored enough runs in the first inning to win it.

MAKES CHANGES

Manager Don Pries not only changed his batting order but made three infield switches. He benched second-baseman Ron Jackson, sent third-baseman to the keystone, moved from first base to the hot corner himself and gave Art Seguso his first starting assignment as a first-baseman.

And, adding the last touch to a successful evening was steady pitching by Bob Drilling, who has been hit hard in his previous starts. It was the third successive game that the Tyees had received top-notch pitching. Bill Bottler and Bill Prior losing to the Bears because Tyee hits were stifled in the first two games.

Following a pre-game meeting, the Tyees went out and scored five runs in the first inning. Dain Clay walked, Mesner singled, Seguso singled, Eddie Lake walked, Joe Joshua singled and Milt Martin singled and the Tyees were ahead to stay.

Three runs in the sixth on two bases on balls, a single and a mighty triple by Tom Perez made it safe and the Tyees wound up with three runs in the ninth.

Perez, with two singles in addition to his triple, and Martin, with a double and two singles, led the Tyees at the plate. Martin batted in three runs to increase his total to 16 while Perez drove in two teammates.

Tyees move on to Tri-City for a three-game series with the Braves with Hal Flinn almost certain to start in the first game tonight.

CAPS ROLL ON

Meanwhile, the league-leading Vancouver Capilanos rolled right on as they banged out 14 hits, including a home run by Ken Richardson, to complete a series sweep at Wenatchee with a 7-3 win. It was the third win of the season for veteran George Nicholas.

Spokane Indians and Lewiston Broncs moved into a second-place tie by defeating Tri-City and Salem Senators, respectively. The Indians pounded out a 12-2 win over the Braves behind steady pitching by John Anderson while the Broncs got steady pitching from Guy "Grumpy" Fletcher, ex-Coast League veteran, in besting the Solons, 10-4.

Bases on balls played a big part in the wild game as the Firefighters twice took big leads and the Cafemen came from behind with seven runs in the final inning.

Hughie Barlow added the other TeePee goal on a play with Brian Cullen as the St. Catharines machine made it look easy for a third straight time in the best-of-seven playoff.

Highly-touted Oil Kings scored the first goal, Ray Kinasewich the trigger man, but a penalty to the same Edmonton player soon cost the margin.

The clubs battled scoreless through a dull and ragged first period, Oil Kings holding a slight edge in territorial play. In the second, penalties kept play dull for 10 minutes before Kinasewich broke from the penalty box to beat rookie goaltender Reg. Truax with a high, 10-foot shot to the corner.

Kings faded quickly after that as the TeePees played defensive hockey and moved ahead only on good breaks.

Thursday's score: Duncan Mayo Lumber 8, Chinese Students 3.

Arrow Furniture.

Next game tonight, Cec Fletchers vs.

Duncan Mayo Lumber, unleashing a 42-hit attack that included four triples, pounded out an 8-3 triumph over Chinese Students at Central Park last night to move into a third-place tie with Navy in men's senior "A" softball league standings.

Although committing errors, the Lumbermen showed little sign of nervousness that marked their first Central Park appearance last week as they tumbled the Students to their fifth straight defeat.

Students jumped into a 2-0 lead in the bottom half of the first inning, scoring their runs without the benefit of a hit on a walk, fielder's choice, infield out and an error.

Held to a pair of singles through the next five frames, they drove starter Albert Smith to-cover in the seventh as they tallied their final run with the help of Dave Lowe's lead-off triple and a double by pitcher Wally Borgens. Frank Mosher came in to snuff out the rally and blank the losers in the eighth and final inning.

Duncan tied it at 2-2 in the second inning and went ahead to stay in the third as Don Clark singled in Lou Shreenan. The winners added another run in the fourth frame and ended their scoring with a four-run outburst in the eighth that brought Borgens in for starter Jim Jolin.

Undefeated Kinsmen last night became the first Little League team to win four games, trouncing Lions, 13-5 at Little League Park in a game shortened to four innings by darkness.

Victory moved the hard-hitting Kinsmen club two games in front in the American League. In tonight's game, the three-way deadlock for second place in the National League should be broken as Odd Fellows and Rotary seek their second victory.

VERSATILE

Last night's game produced an oddity in that both starting pitchers wound up behind the plate before the game was through its second inning. Doug Gilmour started for Kinsmen but donned the catcher's pads in the first inning when Bruce Timbers received a torn finger nail. Murray Halkett took over on the mound and gained credit for the win as Kinsmen crossed the plate eight times in the second inning. Halkett struck out 10 and was never in serious trouble.

Bill Barnes started for Lions but went out in Kinsmen's big second inning and wound up doing the catching in a whole-sale switch which saw shortstop Brent Ewing go to the mound, catcher Richard Gilman to centrefield, centrefielder Brian Case to shortstop and Barnes to catch.

Last night's score: Individuals 13, Sidney Merchants 5.
Next game, Monday, Sidney vs. Cooley Bros. at Central Park.

Individuals moved into the lead in the Senior "B" Women's Softball League last night at Central Park as they handed Sidney Merchants a 13-5 thumping.

Sidney moved ahead, 3-0, in the first inning as starting pitcher Helen Pettigrew ran into control trouble. She was replaced by Louise Heal, who held Merchants well in check the rest of the way while her teammates won it with six-run rallies in both of the fourth and sixth innings.

Miss Pettigrew, who moved into the outfield from the pitching mound, hit doubles in each of the big innings and a single in the fifth to lead hitters on both clubs.

Remember When:

Sir Thomas Lipton, the one-time errand boy who became famous as a merchant and sportsman, was elected a member of the exclusive Royal Yacht Squadron 23 years ago today. Sir Thomas, who was unsuccessful in six challenges for the Americas Cup, died in October of the same year, 1931.

TO TAKE A GOOD LOOK AT YOUR HOME

It pays — in hard cash — to give your home a careful "once over" every year. And spring is the most convenient season to make repairs — or to modernize.

Every bit of repair work neglected, every crack, every flake of peeling paint means a loss in dollar value — a depreciation of one of your most valuable assets.

If you need more cash than you have on hand to make these repairs and improvements, see your B of M manager. He'll be glad to talk things over with you.

Whee! Surf's BLUE!

Saves Bluing... soaking and bleaching, too

At last a really new kind of blue detergent! A truly scientific detergent with powerful anti-yellowing, anti-graying action that gives you whitest washes ever, without adding a drop of bluing or bleach. Saves soaking, too. Sky-Blue Surf bursts into oceans of white suds that let you just wash and hang up white!

Yes, it's goodbye and good riddance to three time-wasters— soaking, bleaching and bluing! And "Welcome" to the most dazzling sheets, towels and shirts you've ever laid eyes on. Even old bluejeans and work-clothes come clean clear through . . . and sweet-smelling.

Extra money for the piggy bank when you don't need to spend it on bleaches, bluings. Spend less for linens, too. They wear far longer without bleach to weaken fibres. Next washday why work overtime? Take on the greatest time-saving helper yet— new Blue Surf.

Rotarians Learn Fine Points Of Various Types of Paper

A stranger looking into the antics of commercial paper Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday at noon might have had doubts about the sanity of members of the Victoria Rotary Club. He would have seen a roomful of men sitting blissfully tearing up pieces of paper.

There was good reason however and a talk by each member A. F. Corker on the quality and uses of commercial paper. Mr. Corker, manager of a book and stationery establishment, brought along samples of different types of paper to illustrate his talk. The tearing showed the strength of the various samples.

Guests at the meeting were several members of the boys and girls choirs sponsored by Victoria Rotarians who were successful in the recent music festival.

These included Jean Barrow, Gail Nevens, Margie Deman, Carol and Frances Keller, Mona Beames, Johnny Allan, Jackie Murray, David Mar and Barry Bilnet.

Veterinary Pupils May Receive Aid For Guelph Course

Financial help for students wishing to take veterinary training at Guelph, Ont., may be given by B.C. and other western provinces.

This was disclosed yesterday by Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan on his return from a conference in Regina last week of the four western agriculture ministers.

Mr. Kiernan said the ministers discussed the possibility of setting up a veterinary college for Western Canada but it was felt the number of students who might avail themselves of it might make it uneconomical.

SUBSIDIES BETTER

The ministers agreed, he said, that it might be cheaper and more practical to subsidize students who wish to study veterinary science at Canada's only veterinary college in Guelph.

Officials of the Guelph college will be asked to state whether [illegible] possible with [illegible] facilities to graduate the necessary number of veterinarians to take care of the requirements of Canada as a whole, Mr. Kiernan said.

The four ministers also felt that the Prairie Farmers Rehabilitation Act facilities should be put on a broader basis and apply to a wider region in the western provinces.

Cheap Movies Flop

BARI, Italy (NANA) — A movie theatre price war in the small town of Bitonto near here has customers holding out for rewards to induce them to see a film.

When one owner got hard up for an audience he cut his price from about 15 to seven cents. Around the corner a competitor went to three cents. A few days after a third theatre [illegible] suit.

Angered by what he termed this despicable act, the first owner dropped his price to about half a cent. For good measure he threw in a great wheel of fresh roll with every admission.

Movie attendance meanwhile dropped sharply at all three theatres, the customers apparently waiting for prices to be abolished altogether, or even reversed.

New Up-to-Date Gazetteer Has 27,000 B.C. Names

Socred Victories Expected

Return of British Columbia and Alberta Social Credit governments for further terms of office was predicted here last night by Howard B. Macdonald, Social Credit MLA for Calgary, Alta.

Mr. Macdonald said he was certain the Social Credit government in Alberta would be returned in the next provincial elections.

He added from what he has seen and heard in B.C. the present government will go back in office.

ON HOLIDAY

Visiting with friends and staying at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Macdonald said he is here for a holiday. He arrived yesterday and expects to leave Victoria Saturday.

Mr. Macdonald, who left his Liberal seat in the Alberta government to become an independent and then a Social Crediter, claims Socred economic policies "do not differ much from that of the Liberals."

But, he said, the Socred party was "just the opposite to socialism and the CCF party."

"We firmly believe in the free enterprise system," he stated.

Although Social Credit was making headway on the provincial level he thought "it would be quite some time" before the party would be a federal challenge.

Save Merchant Fleet, House Speakers Urge

OTTAWA (CP) — Howard C. Green (CP, Vancouver South) said Thursday night that Canada's deepsea merchant marine is disappearing and called on the government to reverse the trend.

"Even Switzerland has a merchant marine and she's going to be bigger than the Canadian merchant navy by the end of June," Mr. Green said in the Commons.

He was supported by Grace MacInnis (CCF, Burrard) who said Canadian exporters are sabotaging Canada's merchant marine by using cheaper foreign vessels.

SHIPS TRANSFERRED

Much of Canada's big wartime merchant fleet has been transferred to British registry, where operating costs are lower. By June 30 there will be only 21 seagoing freighters under the Canadian flag, compared with 147 in 1947.

Mr. Green said that of the 21 ships remaining in June, only 14 will be in the deep-sea trade. There were rumors that eight of those in the Canadian National Steamships fleet would be sold. Seven other ocean vessels were engaged in the coastal trade.

SUBSIDY SOUGHT

He advocated a subsidy of $100,000 a year for each Canadian flag ship to help meet foreign competition and maintain a merchant navy.

The government had said that in an emergency it could get back 90 ships which had gone under British registry and use a ship pool under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the event of another war. But those 90 ships were [illegible].

B.C. Unable To Prevent Meat Imports

The provincial government is powerless to do anything about importation of Alberta meat into this province at prices cheaper than B.C. butchered meat.

This was stated this week by Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd. The minister first drew attention to the practice during a speech two weeks ago at the opening of the B.C. Products Fair in Victoria.

SOME LAYOFFS

He said Alberta packing houses were shipping meat to Vancouver and undercutting B.C. houses by two cents a pound. He said the practice had caused some lay-offs in B.C. and that it could depreciate the price of cattle on the hoof in B.C.

Work on Two Frigates Starts in Local Yards

Work on the conversion of the frigates HMCS Antigonish and HMCS New Waterford for use in submarine warfare has been started at Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows.

Cost of the conversion jobs is in the neighborhood of $5,500,000 and the job is expected to take about 18 months.

Each yard will employ about 100 men for the work.

About 20 men have already started on the jobs and this number will be gradually increased as work progresses.

New electrical equipment will have to be ordered by both yards for the specialized work involved.

The Antigonish and New Waterford will be identical after conversion to the anti-submarine escort vessels New Glasgow and Stettler which were converted in the east and arrived on this coast in April.

The conversion jobs in the two Victoria yards were to have started earlier this year but were held up by a delay in specifications and plans due to changes in electrical equipment in the ships.

The specifications and plans are now coming through.

First job will be to strip the vessels. Electricians are now on the job and steelworkers will follow.

UNIONS PROTEST

Labor unions had protested the delay in starting the conversion work and had carried their protests as far as Ottawa. During his visit here at Easter Dr. Frank F. Fairey, MLA for Victoria, said he was doing all he could to have the work brought but he could not push the button.

VMD took possession of the Antigonish from the navy in February and it lay at the VMD dock while shipyard workers were being laid off for lack of work.

Yarrows had the contract earlier in the year but only took the New Waterford from the navy last week.

Burrard Drydock in North Vancouver has won a similar $2,750,000 contract to convert and modernize the RCN frigate HMCS Beacon Hill.

Games Spark Mass Brawl At Carnival

DUNCAN — The war cry rang out at the carnival grounds in Duncan Tuesday night and the Teamies swarmed over the grounds to wage a battle with a number of disgruntled locals who claimed they had been taken by carnival sign games.

It all boiled up when some one threw a rock through the window of a carnival wagon. The carnival men formed a solid wall and laid about them with tent pegs and other bludgeons. It was reported by some spectators that one or two young men were dragged down a side street and beaten but police would not confirm or deny this.

On Wednesday afternoon there were a number of rumors about retaliation that night but nothing happened. Police were ready with all available reinforcements in case they were required. The police said there had been no positive identification of anyone who had been involved in the melee, and therefore no charges could be laid.

Its bells are the same weight and in the same scale of B flat as the bells in Westminster Abbey.

The quarter-peal, which is used only for special occasions, will be rung by eight bell-ringers. It features 1,260 changes of grandsire triples. The bells will ring for more than hour.

In Britain more than 10,000 ringers men and women will sound the arrival of Queen Elizabeth, and the Duke of Edinburgh back on English soil.

Mass flights of RAF planes will roar overhead. A whole fleet will ride escort and the Thames will carry the best-dressed ship it has seen in more than a century.

The last reigning monarch to sail up the river was Queen Victoria who set London bells pealing in 1842.

Queen Elizabeth will ride from the dock to Buckingham Palace in the state coach, surrounded by cavalry, just as she did last June 2 when she donned the Crown.

The Britannia will be met by the entire Home Fleet off Plymouth this morning. From the Isle of Wight two destroyers will ride escort to the Thames where four fast naval patrol boats will take over with the Trinity House pilotage yacht Patricia leading the way.

As it moves before the vast crowds expected on the river banks the Britannia will fly the flag of the Lord High Admiral at the foremast, the Royal standard at the main, and the Union Jack at the mizzen.

First to greet the Queen will be Sir Noel Bowater, Lord Mayor of London and Admiral of the Port, who will be rowed to the Royal yacht in a lighter (other bells will not hear the Britannia).

Then the Queen and the Duke will step for to the Royal barge for the final stage to Westminster, escorted by pretty trimmed Royal Navy craft.

At Westminster Pier the Queen will be met by dignitaries headed by Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill.

As she steps onto English soil for the first time in nearly six months salutes will be fired from Hyde Park and the Tower of London and church bells will begin to peal all over Britain and the Commonwealth.

Along the Mall will be wild-animal figures, striped poles topped by cut-out suggestions of fun and games, with elm boughs illustrating sequences from the Royal tour.

Every bridge over the Thames will be heavily decorated. An enormous sign reading Welcome Home will be stretched the entire length of Tower Bridge.

Thrilling Logger Sports Planned for Celebration

NANAIMO — Unprecedented thrills and chills are being lined up for the loggers' sports which will be a main feature of the May 24 celebrations. The program was announced Thursday.

Logging sports are in charge of Nanaimo sub-local of the IWA. Its committee comprises George Ward, chairman, Fred Dawson, secretary, J. F. Coll. Will announcer. Frank Wilfert, Jr. is coordinator between IWA, Empire Day Celebrations Committee and the logging concerns of the district who have donated large prizes.

BIG EVENTS

Some of the big events planned by the loggers are hand bucking and chopping which, even if an "old method" has great spectator appeal. On the Island are a number of the finest on the continent. Hugh McKenzie, Alan Woodrow, Charlie Murray and Phil Whitaker.

High-rigging 80 to 90 feet above ground, real expert torchic is due. Will be seen in action with belt spurs and axe. Crowds will get an inside view of falling both by hand and power saws. A topoff to this feature will be falling from a springboard by hand fallers. They will be about 15 feet up the tree balanced on a board notched into the tree. Kind of trees to be fallen are in the language of the loggers, one axe handle, one toothpick and one plug of chewing tobacco across the butt, or 10 feet.

ENTRIES HEAVY

Entries in the two-man and one-man power saw bucking are so heavy, the committee will stage eliminations at Caledonian Field on the morning of May 24, with the four fastest entries in each event competing for monies and cups in the afternoon.

The competition is one of skill and mechanical preparedness. Contestants will start cutting from the bottom of the log first switching to the top and cutting down to meet the bottom cut. Cuts must be within one inch of each other.

CHANCE FOR FILERS

Saw filers, the men who keep the blades in finest shape have a chance for honors this year. There will be prizes for the fastest in the first and second runners. Filer is the man who spends long hours repairing and refiling saws during practice.

Chokerman's race is an added attraction and while there is not too much skill to hooking of logs, the committee believes to win the event a man must be trained in the art and also fast on his feet.

Tree-climbing is an attraction which few will miss. Training and experience lie behind this event, the committee points out. Rapid training, early rising, calisthenics, and practice climbs are among many features of training prior to the sports day.

JUDGING CHAIRMAN

Joe Cliff, general superintendent of Canoe Logging and Railway Company, is chairman in charge of judging. He has spent a lifetime in the industry and is former competitor in loggers' sports. Wilson Dewar, superintendent of the Crofton Bay of Mac Millan and Bloedel, is a judge of experience and Bill Collister of Ucluelet, another powerful man, will also be on the judging panel. He represents power saw sales and service.

Ed Chalbert, another judge, is a power saw collector and a filer all his life. He won the world championship for the most bucking at Port Alberni three years in succession and several times a prize competition.

Welcome for Queen

Christ Church Bells To Speak for Canada

Victoria is the only city in Canada which will be able to ring a peal of bells on Saturday to celebrate the homecoming of Queen Elizabeth after her 16,000-mile Commonwealth tour.

The bells of Christ Church Cathedral will sound a quarter-peal at 2:30 p.m. Saturday when it joins other churches in the Empire in a gigantic welcome which in Britain has reached the proportions of a Coronation celebration.

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have asked that all Empire churches that have bells sound a special peal of welcome for the Queen on Saturday.

Christ Church Cathedral has the only peal of bells in operation in Canada. Its bells are

Streets Plan May Go

Victoria's new system of one-way streets is presently headed for the scrap heap of opinions of the mayor and certain members of council prevail.

A letter from Fort Street merchant Roger Monteith protesting continuation of the one-way street plan drew support in city council yesterday.

Alf. Arthur Dowell, public works committee chairman, said he sympathized with Fort Street merchants affected on the blocks between Government and Douglas.

He said he had objected to the one-way plan for Fort Street when it was first suggested and he still objects.

Alderman Dowell said he is hoping that an early meeting can be arranged between the public works committee, the police department and traffic engineer Robert Dobie to thrash out the problem once and for all.

Mayor Hutchison agreed that the one-way street plan was a source of trouble on Fort Street.

Ald. Mrs. Margaret Christie termed the system "a menace."

Mr. Monteith's letter, which complained bitterly that the one-way street arrangement was having an adverse affect on the business of Fort Street merchants, was referred to the public works committee.

Talks Planned On City Grant

Administration of the province's $50,000 capital city grant to Victoria will probably be discussed at a joint meeting of city and provincial officials before the end of this month.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black notified city council by letter yesterday that he plans to appoint a committee of members of the public works committee, health committee, the city solicitor to the capital city grant committee.

The government has suggested that administration of the grant be discussed by a joint committee of three government department heads and three aldermen.

City council has requested the mayor to appoint three members of the public works committee to meet with a special committee of aldermen.

Mrs. Bessie Vincent, 241 Menzies Street, a widow with two children, is receiving congratulations today on the street scenes of Victoria's first Mystery Man being staged by the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association as part of this year's May 24 festivities.

Mrs. Vincent, unmasked mystery man, knew Bert as he strolled along Douglas between Yates and Fort yesterday morning. She stopped several other men in the search before finding Mr. Bert.

WINNER OF $25

For identifying the mystery man Mrs. Vincent won $25.

There was a contest in the first Mystery Streets and Lanes day yesterday.

The mystery man will roam Yates street, from Douglas to Blanshard, on Saturday between 10:30 and 11 a.m. Prize for identifying him that day Saturday is $50.

Contestants must have a celebrations association membership ticket. Then all they have to do is go up to anyone suspected and say: "Are you the mystery man?"

If he is he will say: "Have you a membership ticket?" He will sign the card and if it is presented at the celebrations association office, Room 10, City Hall, there will be $5 for the hunter.

FURTHER PRIZES

There will be further $25 prizes on May 18 and 20 and another $50 on Saturday, May 22.

Yesterday's proud winner is looking for a job as clerk, saleswoman, or receptionist.

$5,000 Civic Grant Asked To Aid Games

Application of the British Empire Games Committee for a $5,000 grant from Victoria was referred by city council yesterday to the finance committee.

The games are being held in Vancouver from July 30 to August 7.

Harold J. Merdoss, representative of the BEG committee, told council that North Vancouver had made a grant of $2,000 and Vancouver had contributed $50,000.

CONTRIBUTIONS MADE

Mr. Merdoss said Area B and other Vancouver Island cities have made voluntary contributions to the games.

While the games are being held in Vancouver, he said, we feel that to some extent we are carrying the burden of those of you will not vote for our money by but for the Dominion and for Canada as well.

The appeal for funds to finance the games is regarded as "a once in a lifetime appeal," he said.

Mr. Merdoss said that between 700 and 1,000 athletes, the flower of the Common wealth, will begin arriving in Vancouver July 16.

TOURIST INFLUX

He estimated the games would bring an influx of 100,000 additional tourists to BC this summer.

"Many of these will spend time with us," he said. Vancouver Island is always a must on every visitor's list. All the guests will leave dollars and cents behind them, when they leave."

He told council he had heard of one party of Californians who planned a visit to Victoria and often to daily between here and the Mainland by air to see the games.

TO BE CONSIDERED

Ald. William Dodd, finance committee chairman, said all members of council should give serious consideration to the appeal of the BEG committee.

I feel we should do something to help our big sister city, he said, adding that the games will benefit all British Columbia.

Only $5,000 Collected So Far

Mercy Campaign Lags

The Salvation Army's drive for funds to carry on its work of mercy is lagging here.

Captain D. J. Proudfoot, campaign chairman, announced yesterday that only $2,000 had been collected toward the Victoria Red Shield objective of $30,000. The campaign began on May 3 and is due to end May 31.

Last year $10,000 came in during the first week. The objective was the same as this year's.

More workers are sought to carry on the house-to-house canvass.

Dependent on dollars given by generous Victorians are the Army's social service centre on Johnson Street where the single men down on their luck get a helping hand, family welfare work administered from the army's citadels, Sunset Lodge for elderly women and a share of the Maywood Home for unmarried mothers.

During the Winnipeg and Fraser Valley floods the Salvation Army was there with relief. Should the Fraser Valley be flooded this year, the Army will be on the job again.

Smart Boater

LONDON It's spring bonnet time in London's Mayfair hat salons where elegant women with money are purchasing frothy bonnets. Many of the new smaller hats are styled to tip to one side over the forehead in the manner of this smart boater. In black and white stripes the boater has an impudent similarity to the hat style peculiar to Maurice Chevalier. (CP photo)

TV Talk

BY ROY PARRETT

Good morning to everyone, especially non viewers — who have probably enjoyed a night's rest.

* * *

Just the facts ma'm: In 1950 when TV was still young, children in Evanston, Ill., spent 21 hours a week, looking at television.

A new survey indicates that the same elementary school group spends 23 hours a week looking at TV — in spite of several years of living with it.

* * *

Prediction: Great & improved reception from the mass pop roar crashes 11 station when operation begins from the new site at View Park, Wash.

KENT-TV officials aren't giving out any information about progress of the new transmitter, so your reporter is heading there to spy out the situation.

Full details in this column next week.

* * *

Requests: Many readers who have written for the television aerial booklet "Your TV Aerial is Showing" have sent suggestions for future TV looks.

Some want the late evening shows listed. Some want more technical information on a few and the latest Limerick joke to appear in the column.

The last two requests will receive consideration in the near future.

* * *

Dial Spins: KOMO-TV is showing its "Million Dollar Movie" three times a night; three days. See Patsy Kelly and Maxie Rosenbloom in "Kelly The Second," on KOMO-TV.

Rocky Castellani and Ralph "Tiger" Jones meet in a 10 round middleweight bout from Madison Square Gardens at 7 on KOMO-TV.

Liberace, George, and the Pleasant dreams!

"Groucho sent me."

castlesticks will shine on CBL at 7:30.

The Big Revue on channel 2, at 9 will present the Revue troupe in all the glitter of the Ziegfeld Follies with Frank Beppiatt and John Aylesworth.

Nancy Davis is a beauty operator who gets in the way of escaping criminals in "The Pearl Street Incident," on Playhouse Of Stars, channel 11 at 9.

"Forever My Heart" is the story of an English nobleman officer of the 17th century who investigates a young widow accused of plotting against Oliver Cromwell only to fall in love with her. Douglas Fairbanks and Muriel Pavlow are the stars on KING-TV at 9:00.

Jean Hersholt is seen in "Meet Dr. Christian," on channel 5 at 11:30 [illegible] M. calling permatting.

The late late show on KTNT-TV at 12:15 is a thriller chiller. "Mr. Wong in China-town," with Boris Karloff [illegible]

BRIDGE QUIZ

When you have opened with a two-bid (assuming that you use that for your game-forcing opening) your partner must continue to hold the bidding open for you, unless the opponents come to the rescue and do it for him, until you have reached game or a satisfactory penalty double of the opponents.

Most of us don't hold two-bids very often, so perhaps we don't get sufficient practice in handling the rebid situations. You can enjoy yourself, therefore, by choosing your rebid with each of the following power-houses, assuming that you have opened with two hearts, partner has responded with two no-trump (a denial bid) and the opponents have not entered the bidding. What do you bid next?

♠ 5
♡ A K Q 10 8
◇ A 2

(d)

◇ A K 7 6 4
♣ K

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

(a) Three clubs. It is important to find the best combined suit with this hand, or to be sure that partner has potential stoppers in both the unbid suits if he is going to go on to three no-trump. You have a light two-bid, and three clubs gives partner the best chance to show his hand.

(b) Four hearts. Three clubs is a futile bid. It will probably be more helpful to the opponents than to your side. Your heart suit is strong enough to stand alone, and you don't want to play five clubs unless partner has the king of clubs and a good club suit. Even then, you probably won't make six since it is likely you are off two spade tricks—so why not play at four hearts and collect your 150 honors.

(c) Three clubs. By logical extension of the reasoning which stopped you from showing the clubs with hand (b), doing so on this hand is your best course, even though you hold only a three-card suit. You want to give your partner every opportunity to bid; he can do so most comfortably over three clubs. If he bids four clubs, of course, you will bid four hearts. And by bidding clubs, presumably you will encourage your opponents to lead a spade or a diamond, either of which will be most helpful to you.

(d) Three hearts (unless you play that partner can pass this bid). Your hearts are so much stronger than your diamonds that you don't want to play at diamonds unless partner's support for the minor is very powerful. You will bid four diamonds if partner bids three spades or three no-trump.

Daily Astrology

BY RITA DEL MAR

FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1954

Friday for everyone: Get an early start in connection with trips, decisions, discussions. Shun haste; defer moves, changes around the midafternoon and in the evening.

Look for your birthdate and birthsign below.

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Be aware of possible contradictory views and ideas and make necessary compromises cheerfully.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Make few unnecessary changes and concentrate on routine tasks and service interests.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Freedom is curtailed today. Do not take undue chances. Accept changes philosophically but do not precipitate them.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Don't be surprised if some unexpected visitors or events disrupt routine. Get out a while and relax.

July 23 to August 22 (Leo)—If you have any trip scheduled get an early start. Midafternoon suggests caution in communication of ideas and general relationships.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Keep an eye on income and outgo this day and adjust to circumstances where accounts are concerned.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra)—See those to whom you look for favor or preference, but do it early for best results. Curb restlessness.

October 23 to November 21 (Scorpio)—Attend to those matters which require confidential handling. Morning decisions are best. Stay in the background later.

November 22 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Pick and choose your company and associates with an eye to avoiding those combinations which clash.

December 22 to January 19 (Capricorn)—The business and career picture is still in a process of change and new developments. Pursue routine tasks.

January 20 to February 18 (Aquarius)—Be prepared to change your plans on the spur of the moment and defer unnecessary travels.

February 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—This is a time when some element of secrecy or privacy is to the fore. Effect savings where possible.

Planning ahead—Good for entertainment, sociability, etc.: May 16, 17, 22, 23, 25, 31.

Two Lawyers To Stand Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Herman Buller and Louis Glazer, Montreal lawyers, Thursday were committed to stand trial on charges arising out of what police have described as an international baby adoption racket.

The men were committed on charges of falsifying civil birth certificates. Judge Gerald Almond rejected charges of forgery and conspiracy to commit forgery in both cases.

Forest Fire Aid For Provinces Being Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — A plan of federal aid to the provinces for forest fire protection is under "very active consideration," Northern Affairs Minister Lesage said Thursday.

The proposal has not yet been placed before the cabinet, he informed the Commons. However, he was studying all possibilities for such an arrangement.

Mr. Lesage made the statement in reply to questions by Howard Green (PC, Vancouver Quadra) as the House considered estimates for the department of national resources.

The discussion ranged over forests, the tourist industry and the administration of the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Mr. Green said the chief emphasis of the federal Forestry Act is on protection of forests. Forest fires were the main problem, especially in British Columbia, but the federal government gave the provinces no assistance in this regard.

Mr. Lesage said his department is paying half the cost of a forest inventory in the provinces, which is now two-thirds complete.

A request for federal aid toward forest fire protection had been made by Premier Bennett and former finance minister Einar Gunderson of British Columbia several months ago.

Mr. Lesage said that since then he has had the possibility under active consideration and is still working on it. However, the government would have to decide whether to adopt such a policy.

He said the government will spend $1,000,000 this year toward forest inventories by the provinces, and another $225,000 as a 20-per-cent share of reforestation in six provinces.

About $1,000,000 would be spent on forest research, he said. One of every 10 Canadians is employed in a job connected with forestry and forest products.

For the honest-to-goodness facts on big-car value...

ask these questions:

Q Will you be charged extra for an automatic transmission?

A On most cars, yes—maybe as much as $200 extra! But on all Chrysler models, including the moderately priced Windsor De Luxe, the automatic transmission is standard equipment at no extra cost. What's more, Chrysler PowerFlite is the newest and finest of all fully-automatic transmissions.

Q Are you paying for a "big-car" name, but getting a "small-car" body?

A Many luxury cars include one or more models with "small-car" bodies. These bodies are either the same, or practically the same, in interior size as those of the smallest cars in the manufacturer's entire line!

The beautiful Chrysler Windsor De Luxe, on the other hand, is one of the biggest cars on the road. It measures more than seven feet (85") from instrument panel to back of rear seat—longer than any other Canadian car of comparable price! Check this point before you buy.

Q Are you getting the quality you should expect in a big car?

A In the luxurious Chrysler Windsor De Luxe, you'll find quality features such as foam rubber seat cushions in both front and rear, back-up lights, horn ring, wheel covers, oil-bath air cleaner, oil filter, etc. You'd be surprised at some of the cars in which many such items cost you extra.

For another quality test, tap your fingers against the Windsor roof lining and feel thick insulation all the way to the back seat where many manufacturers leave it out. And also notice the beautiful, long-wearing baked enamel body finish.

Q How many important safety features do you get for your money?

A Electric windshield wipers that never slow down under acceleration, Safety-Rim wheels that help prevent an accident in case of a blowout, rivetless Cyclebond brake linings and two hydraulic cylinders at each vital front wheel brake are safety features that every family man should insist upon. Make sure you get them.

Q How can you be sure of the smooth performance and the smooth ride that are the mark of a truly fine car?

A Only by getting behind the wheel, can you really appreciate the wonderfully smooth performance of the thrifty Windsor Spitfire engine, teamed with the new PowerFlite fully-automatic transmission. Only then can you appreciate the difference that a really long wheelbase, a big box-section frame, Oriflow shock absorbers and extra-long springs can make in riding comfort.

Compare the Chrysler ride with that of any other car. It will spoil you for anything less!

Secret Kingdom in Indonesia Believed Magellan's Real Story

JAKARTA, Indonesia (NANA) — Fresh evidence has been unearthed here to show that explorer Ferdinand Magellan, whose ship Victory was the first to circumnavigate the globe, died in Indonesia in 1540 and not in the Philippines.

The textbook version claims that Magellan was slain in the southern Philippines by the King of Mactan on April 27, 1521. The new, documented claim is that Magellan died in Celebes, the huge spidery-shaped island of east Indonesia, and only after he had established a personal kingdom in that rich region.

This startling discovery is claimed by R. I. Mantiri, a captain in the Indonesian Air Force who has spent more than 15 years tracing the story.

TOMB EVIDENCE

His case, now in manuscript form, is supported by photographs of 90-odd tombs claimed to be of Portuguese and Spanish origin discovered in the vicinity of Menado, the present-day capital of northern Celebes and centre of the world's major source of copra (dried coconut).

Mantiri has also painstakingly set down the names of 527 landowners in the region whose names he contends can be linguistically traced to Spain. He includes his own.

This is Mantiri's story based on the evidence he has gathered:

Magellan, in the course of his travels, visited Celebes briefly, returned to the Philippines in 1521, and then dispatched his ship Victory to Spain with the story of his death.

BUILT KINGDOM

But meanwhile Magellan and his Japanese second-in-command revisited Celebes in 1525 and founded a new kingdom. With the story of his death circulated freely in Europe, Magellan's secret efforts to nurture the growth of his own kingdom, unmolested by the great empires of the period.

Tombs in the area today show mausoleums with seeming strong Spanish and Inca Peruvian influence. Friezes on some tombs depict Europeans armed with North African scimitars and wearing Spanish berets.

One tomb with a cherry blossom motif is believed to be the grave of Magellan's second-in-command.

SPANISH CARTS

Only in this part of Indonesia do the natives use carts modeled on the ancient Spanish Andalusian style. Here, too, the Indonesians wear Inca-type ceremonial headdresses for their dances.

And, moreover, northern Celebes abounds in the Anoang, a variety of wild cow hitherto supposedly found only in Peru.

Official history contends that Spain held parts of Celebes for several months in the 16th century but was driven out by the Dutch in 1560. It is considered virtually impossible, however, that such great evidence of Spanish, Portuguese and Inca civilization would be left behind after such a brief Spanish rule.

BUSY MONTH

Another weak point in the official version of history is that Magellan supposedly had been in the Philippines only one month when he met his death. During that time he is supposed to have founded a settlement, married the Mactan king's daughter, built a Christian church and converted the inhabitants of Cebu to Catholicism.

Indo-China Legion Dead Include 25,000 Germans

BONN (NANA) — The West German government, which is trying to halt the flow of its young men into the French Foreign Legion, has announced that 25,000 Germans have been killed in Indo-China.

The West release all men recruited in Germany since the Second World War, the Bonn government claimed that most of the legionnaires in the battle zone are Germans. It estimated the recruiting rate in Germany at 12,000 a year.

Isotope Eases Cancer

PARIS (NANA) — Two French physicians have discovered what they claim is a remedy for cancer pains, gallium 72, a metallic isotope obtained by treating the rare element gallium in an atomic reactor.

The physicians have communicated their find to the French Academy of Medicine.

Experiments have reportedly shown that the new radioactive element not only eliminates the nerve-wracking cancer pains as no other known remedy can, but also serves to detect cancer in the most concealed cases, according to the researchers.

Civic Strike Threatening

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Consideration of possible strike action by civic employees was postponed indefinitely yesterday by city council, despite growing unrest among City Hall "inside" and "outside" staffs.

Leaders of the Civic Employees' Protective Association disclosed Wednesday night that outside workers had already applied for a government-supervised strike vote.

STATEMENT ISSUED

Subsequently, Elwood Gropp, president of the association, issued this statement of his organization's position: "This association has considered many motions and recommendations for its future guidance, and before any future action is taken its immediate decision has been to advise the city council that it is still perfectly prepared to have matters in dispute brought before an arbitration board whose findings would be accepted by and binding on both parties."

Workers in both unions were recently awarded across-the-board wage boosts of 3 per cent by unanimous recommendations of conciliation boards.

The awards were refused by city council.

During yesterday's council meeting, Ald. William Pinfold drew attention to reports that the outside staff had applied for a strike vote.

Mayor Harrison suggested that the matter be discussed after the regular meeting of council at a committee meeting of the whole council.

STANDING FIRM

He said that as far as he is concerned there is nothing to discuss, indicating that he does not plan to budge from his position of complete opposition to granting the wage boosts.

The mayor suggested that the committee of the whole meeting be left in abeyance until "we have a full council." He said Ald. Frank Mulliner will return from Eastern Canada next Monday.

Ald. Arthur Dowell objected, saying he is leaving before the end of the week for Eastern Canada and could not be present at any meetings next week.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow is also in Eastern Canada and is not expected back in the city until next Thursday.

Alderman Pinfold asked that the committee meeting be held immediately after yesterday's council meeting, but Ald. Brent Murdoch said he would have to leave the City Hall at 3.30 p.m.

The mayor said this would leave only a bare majority of council to discuss the problem and added that it should be discussed by the entire body.

MORAL OBLIGATION

He declared he didn't think wage increases were justified this year. However, since wage hikes were recommended by unanimous reports of conciliation boards, the city is under a moral obligation to grant the awards, he said.

Alderman Dowell referred to growing discontent among civic employees over council's attitude and said the morale of the staffs is low.

Council and its civic employees both are divided on the issue of wage increases, he said.

The only solution, he added, is to seek arbitration which would be binding on both parties.

Alderman Pinfold finally agreed that the date for the committee meeting should be left to the decision of the mayor.

City Council could open negotiations any time with the unions in order to avoid strike action. This step would be possible, however, only through agreement between council and the unions. Council has no legal grounds at this point on which to force the unions to reopen negotiations or agree to arbitration.

COST TO CITY

The outside staff originally sought wage increases roughly equivalent to 19 cents an hour which would have cost the city $99,000. The 3 per cent conciliation board award, however, would cost the city only $37,600.

The inside staff sought a wage increase of 7.8 per cent, which would have cost the city an additional $49,531. The 3 per cent wage award of the conciliation board reduced this amount to $20,710.

Outside employees have decided to seek a strike vote and revert to their original wage demands.

Brooklyn's 'Cave Man' Returns Above Ground

Robert Lindell, the 15-year-old Brooklyn high school freshman, who played hermit for 13 days and nights in a subway manhole, 20 feet under one of the busiest corners in Brooklyn, N.Y., is seen at left, packing away a healthy sandwich while having his hair cut "above ground" after his adventure. Robert was found by police—after his aunt, Mrs. Anna Lampielli, ferreted word of his whereabouts out of his chums—asleep on an old auto seat covered by an army blanket in the manhole, a 6x18-foot cable-splicing chamber in the tunnel of the Brighten beach shuttle line. Robert ran away early in April but returned home after five days' absence revealing only that he had been living "in a manhole." He had returned home then only because he had neglected to stock his hideout. After spending a few weeks collecting supplies, which included dozens of cans of beans and bottles of root-beer, he took off again on April 28. Men at right are seen removing some of Robert's belongings from manhole, including mattress, chair, picture and some canned food.—(Central Press Canadian.)

Big Ship Program Slated For Services from Victoria

The converted frigate St. Stephen will be refitted for duty as a third weatherships on Station Papa at a cost of $400,000, it was learned last night.

At the same time it was disclosed a new lighthouse supply and buoy vessel will be built to replace the tender CGS Berens, working from this port.

Col. Keith Dixon, marine agent here, said the new ship will be considerably larger than the Berens.

The lighthouse supply ship building job will be part of a $1,250,000 program for government services out of Victoria; and that expenditure is part of a $10,000,000 program covering federal government shipping.

Another $10,000,000 will be spent on airports by Ottawa, according to a dispatch from the capital.

"We don't know the exact size of the new lighthouse tender yet because, as far as I know, it hasn't been designed," Col. Dixon said. It will require a much larger crew than the Berens.

Conversion of the St. Stephen will include larger crew quarters and a bigger fuel capacity. At present Canada uses only two weatherships on the Pacific, but the United States uses three ships to serve one weather station.

Only a maintenance staff is kept aboard the St. Stephen at present and when it is put in service a full crew will be required.

In federal ship construction it is planned to spend $10,000,000 in the fiscal year ending next March 31 on a continuing program on various jobs.

The Berens, which will be replaced by the new ship, has been a familiar figure in Victoria waters for 33 years. She was built here in 1921, is 66 feet in length, 73 tons gross, and carries a crew of ten officers and men.

U.S. Yard To Build RCN Keels

Canada has had to turn to the United States to supply keels for use on Canadian minesweepers.

Bellingham Shipyards Co. has been awarded a $150,000 contract to build six pressure-treated minesweeper keels for delivery to six separate yards in Canada. Davies Shipbuilding Ltd., of Quebec, lead shipyard in minesweeper construction announced award of the subcontract.

According to local shipyard officials it is the first time Canada has had to turn to the United States for aid of this kind.

Two of the keels will be used on minesweepers to be constructed at Yarrows and Victoria Machinery Depot.

The keels will be of laminated plywood and will be similar to those used in the locally-built minesweepers HMCS Comox and HMCS James Bay and the Fortune which is now under construction at VMD.

Old Tender To Go

Royal Yacht Anchors Off Britain

PENZANCE, England (AP)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh returned to England Thursday night at the end of their six-month world tour.

The royal yacht Britannia anchored for the night in St. Ansell bay. It had brought them and Prince Charles and Princess Anne from the African Mediterranean coast, where the children met them on the last stretches of the tour.

The yacht today will sail along the English coast and up the Thames for a royal welcome home in London Saturday by millions of their subjects.

Second Fatality

Two Naval Men and Child Given Treatment in Hospital

Victoria's second traffic fatality of the year was recorded yesterday when the father of five children died from head injuries received in a two-car collision at Leighton and Richmond at 6.20 p.m.

Dead is Peter Bulmer, an RCN man, who lived at 989 Dunsmuir, Esquimalt.

Three other persons were injured including a 21-months-old baby boy.

Injured were:

CPO Lloyd Thomas, 1732 Amphion, in HMCS Naden Hospital;

PO Christopher Moodie, 3811 Rowland, released from Royal Jubilee after treatment for head bruises; and

Robbie Redgrave, 21-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Redgrave, 1255 Judge Place. The little boy was treated for cuts to the mouth and ear and subsequently released from hospital.

Eye-witnesses said the car driven by Bulmer, which was traveling east on Leighton, had nearly crossed Richmond Road when the other vehicle, driven by Robert G. Redgrave, smashed into its rear.

Bulmer's car went out of control and overturned on the southeast corner of the intersection.

Both cars were heavily damaged, police reported.

The rear of Bulmer's vehicle was crushed in and blood was smeared over the roof of the right side. A city constable had to climb inside the overturned car to release the injured men.

The front of the other car was stove in, the engine being pushed back from its mountings.

Police took the three Navy men to Jubilee in an ambulance while a passer-by drove the injured child to the same hospital.

Bulmer, who sustained a fractured skull and shock, died two hours after the accident.

A large dog, riding in the Redgrave car, wandered about after the crash and climbed back into the old-model car to guard his master's property when the injured had been taken away.

Naval authorities said all three men were members of the crew of HMCS Sioux.

CPO Thomas is being held in hospital overnight for observation. It is expected he will be released this morning.

Police said no charges would be laid. An inquest will be held at a date to be announced later.

It was stated that Bulmer was a married man with five children. His wife, Edith, and brother, James, were hurried to the hospital soon after the accident.

Both cars are being held in the police garage.

The first traffic death of this year here was well-known blind musician Charles Rowles, who was killed in a two-car crash at Pembroke and Cook, March 3.

Civil Defense Help Planned in Floods

While all B.C. prepares to meet the threat of floods, the provincial civil defense board has given authority to Leonard Hatcher, Greater Victoria area civil defense director, to take whatever steps he considers necessary to anticipate government appeals for aid.

Volunteers are not sought at this stage, but the civil defense chiefs will make plans for swift action in the event of help being needed.

So far, said Mr. Hatcher, "there is no reason to believe we will be called. But we will be ready."

A hot sun beat down on B.C.'s far-spreading watersheds yesterday.

Heat, in the wake of heavy rains, may hasten the flood crisis, officials believe.

FEAR HOT SPELL

Weather officials in Vancouver said temperatures in the 70s are in prospect for Interior areas, and flood control officials wondered if the threatened hot spell, which could mean disaster, is at hand.

Premier Bennett, whose own home at Kelowna was surrounded by flood water Wednesday, announced in Victoria that the government would give full support to local authorities and civil defense personnel engaged in flood work.

But he emphasized that the flood situation had not yet reached the danger point. He said a good run-off now would lessen the danger later in the month when the flood threat is expected to be at its peak.

Meanwhile authorities at the Interior centres of Grand Forks and Kelowna reported flash floods which struck the area Wednesday had started to recede.

At Renata, 25 miles northwest of Trail, residents began mopping up following a flood that caused extensive damage to fruit orchards.

At Trail civic officials declined to have the city participate in a civil defense scheme to test preparations being made in the province against any possible atomic attack.

Officials say a prolonged spell of warm weather, similar to that experienced in 1948 when floods caused $30,000,000 damage and drove 16,000 persons from their homes, could have serious consequences. However, a cool snap in about a week's time to slow and spread out the runoff period would avert the danger.

SLOWER RISE

The Columbia River rose about nine inches during the last 24 hours, to 15.04 feet at Revelstoke, compared with a one-foot jump the day before. At Prince George, the Fraser rose 10 inches to 21.12 feet. Both are still well below the danger level.
